PORTRAIT OF A COP. Wheeling Patrolman Tim Hillyer knows how alone a cop can be cruising through town at night. But lonely feelings accompany cops wherever they are.

Loneliness of the beat—cop explains night vigil

by DANN GIRE

This is a story of Tim Hillyer. A police officer. A man who works the streets of the suburbs at night, alone.

His is a story of a job he wouldn't trade for any other, although he says he's 36 going on 50.

A momentary flash of light brightens his burly face as he talks about his work and the work of other suburban cops.

The flame is quickly extinguished and the cab of patrol car 173 goes dark, lighted only by passing cars, streetlamps and the pale green glow from the dashboard.

CAR 173 CRUISES through the deserted industrial park on the west side of Wheeling. Security lights throw dark shadows along the back alleys of local stores. The night is silent.

"If you're not careful you can lead a lonely life," Hillyer says from under his heavy mustache. "But the actual job isn't lonely. I've got 8 million people, or at least it seems that way, to be behind me if I need them."

But for now, Hillyer sits alone in the front seat of his squad car, talking on a variety of topics during his long night vigil, sporadically interrupted by the mechanical voice on the radio.

He talks about cop shows on television. He hates them. "Police Story" is all right, but the other shows are garbage.

He talks about the gun that every cop wears. "Guns are just dumb. If they melted them all down tomorrow, it's all right by me."

BRIEFED AND READY. Patrolman Tim Hillyer prepares to go on his appointed rounds

HE TALKS ABOUT being friendly. "There are people that just won't let you be nice. The hardest thing to learn in this business is that you can't be nice to everyone."

But the topic he speaks best on is what he knows best. What it's like to be a cop.

"The initial appeal of being a cop —well I guess it still is — is that over the years you build up a tremendous feeling of camaraderie. You really get a lot out of it."

But the very camaraderie so enjoyable to Hillyer can be a cop's major pitfall he says.

"It's easy to become very narrow when you're a policeman. After I became one, all I ever saw was police and policemen's wives. Pretty soon you lose touch with things outside the department. Your job literally becomes your life. You don't have any outside activities. You can really lead a lonely life that way."

THE HUSKY VOICE pauses, leaving only the droning sound of the squad car motor to hear. He knows all too well the pitfalls of police work. He is alone.

"I went through what I call a negative period. I was down about most everything. I didn't really know it was affecting my home life," he says. "Being a cop can be disastrous to a marriage."

Hillyer knows. His own marital status has been hanging in the balance for several weeks as a result of unconsciously "bringing home the job."

"It's not so surprising. Divorce and suicide. They're more common than the blue flu around cops," he says.

"I had to take a good look at what made me so unattractive to

Area control of schools may be lost

by KURT BAER

Residents may lose control of their local school districts if Cook County Assessor Thomas M. Tully's plan to reduce assessments on single-family homes is approved, critics charged Tuesday.

Funds for suburban schools would be so sharply cut back by Tully's plan that decisions on long-range planning and educational programs would be taken out of the hands of local school boards, the opponents said.

Tully has proposed that assessments on single-family homes be reduced from 22 per cent of market value to 16 per cent in order to avoid substantial tax increases that Tully says will occur because of inflated home prices.

"The proposal made by Assessor Tully will effectively eliminate any possibility of increasing real estate tax revenue by our local school district to solve our local financial problems," David Kluxdal, Mount Prospect Dist. 57 school board member, told a meeting of the county board's finance committee.

KLUXDAL, 224 S. LOUIS, Mount Prospect, was one of 15 speakers, most of them school officials, to attack Tully's proposal during the third round of finance committee hearings Tuesday. The committee took no action on the plan.

The Illinois Assn. of School Boards has mounted a vigorous effort to defeat the reduced assessment plan by lining up school board members and school superintendents from throughout the county to testify against it.

G. Allan Gogo, Des Plaines Dist. 63 superintendent, said a reduced assessment factor in Maine Township "will create a severe hardship for our schools and the final results may well be calamitous."

Under Tully's plan, the 16 per cent assessment figure would be applied during the quadrennial reassessment of property in the county. Palatine and Wheeling townships are among the areas scheduled for assessment next year.

EVEN WITH THE lower 16 per cent assessment level, townships will show a net increase in assessed valuation because inflation has boosted home prices from 30 to 50 per cent since the last reassessment in 1972, Tully has said.

Police seek couple, car in Chicago woman death

Arlington Heights police are seeking two companions and a car in which a 19-year-old Chicago woman, whose body was found in the village Saturday, last was seen alive.

Police Chief Robert Derks of Arlington Heights Tuesday said his investigators believe the woman, Marcella T. McGee of 11131 S. Union St., was shot in the head by a .22-caliber to .32-caliber handgun, and her body was taken to Arlington Heights.

A janitor discovered Miss McGee's body at 7 a.m. Saturday in the parking lot of Park School, 306 W. Park St., Arlington Heights. She had been dead for between three and four hours, Derks said.

MISS McGEE LAST was seen alive at 9:30 p.m. Friday on Chicago's south side, driving her 1975 blue, four-door Datsun, police said. Witnesses reportedly saw a man and a woman, whom police are seeking for questioning, in her car.

Derks said investigators believe the killer used the south side manicurist's auto to take her body to Arlington Heights after the murder. A statewide and national alert has been put out for the car, Derks said.

Derks said two teams of Arlington Heights detectives are working the Chicago and Harvey neighborhoods Miss McGee reportedly frequented, speaking to friends and witnesses.

Chicago police are providing access to records and support, Derks said, "But the crime is our responsibility, and we're handling the primary case load."

Arlington Heights police also are awaiting results of a Cook County coroner's autopsy conducted Sunday in Chicago, Derks said.

2 admit to selling bogus $20 bills

Two Northwest suburban men pleaded guilty Tuesday to charges that they attempted to sell $948,000 in counterfeit $20 bills.

John K. Nichols, 22, of 404 N. Chestnut Ave., Arlington Heights, and Frank E. Nieprawski, 24, of 610 Donna Ct., Schaumburg, were arrested July 10 after they agreed to sell the money for $70,000 to an undercover U.S. Secret Service agent at the O'Hare Inn, Des Plaines.

The arrests followed a month of investigation, which also involved the arrest June 17 of two men who allegedly used a television repair shop in Worth as a front for a printing plant to produce the bills, a secret service spokesman said.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Bernard M. Decker set Dec. 27 for the sentencing of Nichols and Nieprawski. The two face maximum sentences of 15 years in prison and $5,000 fines.

Teens still lacking in birth control facts

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

Second of two parts

Maria was a senior at Rolling Meadows High School when she got pregnant by a 20-year-old man who lived down the street from her.

She knew a little bit about birth control, but didn't know how to go about getting contraceptives without her parents finding out. Her boyfriend convinced her they wouldn't need to take precautions so long as they were careful to have intercourse only during the "safe time of the month."

"My mother didn't understand why I didn't come to her for help, but there was no way I could've told her I wanted to have sexual relations and needed the pill," says Maria, now 19 and married. "She was scared to tell me the facts of life."

EVEN THE TEACHERS at school were embarrassed about discussing contraception and skipped over it quickly when questions were raised in health classes, she says.

"They tell you the biological facts of how to get pregnant and what happens when you do, but they don't tell you what you can do to make sure you don't get pregnant," Maria says.

Forced to depend on birth control information she picked up from friends, Maria became one more of an increasing number of unwed teen-age mothers.

In 1974, one out of every five babies or 600,000, were born to teen-age mothers in the United States and the numbers keep getting higher and higher, says Gabriel Stickle, vice president for programs at the National Foundation March of Dimes.

WHILE THE ANNUAL birth rate in the United States has been steadily declining for the past 15 years, the number of babies born to mothers under 16 years old rose 75 per cent between 1960 and 1974, he says. In 1960, 26,000 babies were born to mothers younger than 16 compared to 46,000 in 1974.

"We're seeing girls who are mothers at 13," says Barbara Mchelin, program director for The Crossroads clinic in Palatine. "By today's standards, they could be grandmothers by the time they're 28."

Some blame the growing number of adolescent pregnancies on a lack of knowledge about birth control methods, while others contend teen-age pregnancies are just a symptom of much larger problems. Either way, teachers, social workers, psychologists and teen-agers agree that someone is failing somewhere along the way and something has got to be done about it.

"The tragedy is that everyone believes kids have too much information about sex when in reality they do not have enough," Ms. Michelin says. "The myths are still coming through."

SHE SAYS THE schools are trying to educate students about sex and birth control, but can do only as much as the parents in the community allow them to do.

Contraception is one of the topics included in the curriculum guide for the family living unit of High School

His job done, Smokey dies of old age

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The original Smokey Bear, who became a living symbol for fire prevention campaigns after his 1950 rescue from a burning forest in New Mexico, died Tuesday of old age in a "retirement" cage at the National Zoo.

The 26-year-old black bear — renamed "Old Smokey" after his official retirement by the Forest Service in May 1975 — had slowed down in his advanced years and was feeble and arthritic lately.

He would not leave his cage in the past few days, and was found dead Tuesday morning by attendants who think he died in his sleep.

"It was just old age," said a Forest Service spokeswoman.

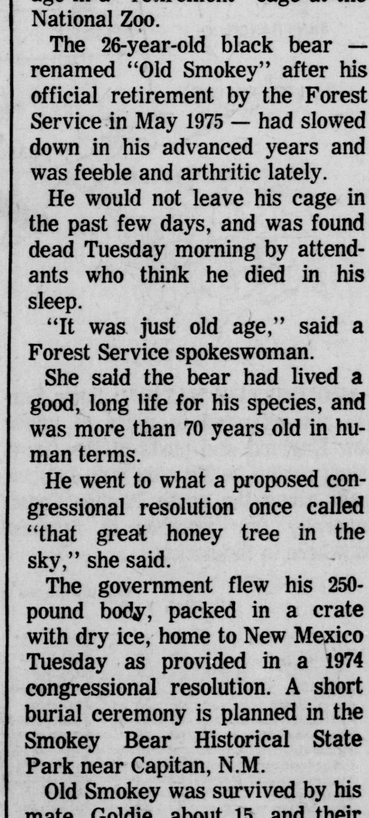

She said the bear had lived a good, long life for his species, and was more than 70 years old in human terms.

He went to what a proposed congressional resolution once called "that great honey tree in the sky," she said.

The government flew his 250-pound body, packed in a crate with dry ice, home to New Mexico Tuesday as provided in a 1974 congressional resolution. A short burial ceremony is planned in the Smokey Bear Historical State Park near Capitan, N.M.

Old Smokey was survived by his mate, Goldie, about 15, and their adopted son — the new Smokey Bear.

Elliot Barker, who was state game warden when the original Smokey Bear was found in a forest fire, said Smokey's influence on forest fire prevention will live on.

Dentist's memory of teeth marks may free prisoner

WHEATON, Ill. (UPI) — A dentist's memory of a set of teeth marks may prove the key to freedom for an Illinois man imprisoned for a murder he contends he didn't commit.

The memory of a New York forensic dentist, Dr. Lowell Levine, may win a new hearing for Richard Milone, convicted for the 1972 slaying of a 14-year-old Carol Stream girl.

Levine has said dental Xrays of another alleged murderer correspond to a bite mark found on 14-year-old Sally Kandel's thigh, whose body was found in a cornfield near her home on Sept. 12, 1972. DuPage County authorities had arrested Milone and charged him with the bludgeoning murder.

PRINCIPAL EVIDENCE used against Milone in his 16-day trial was testimony by three dentists that linked his teeth impressions to the bite mark on the girl's thigh. Milone's defense countered with testimony from four dental experts, including Levine, who said the bite mark was not Milone's.

Milone was found guilty of murder. His attorneys appealed on insufficient evidence. The appeal is pending and Milone remains in a state prison at Menard, Ill.

Levine, recently studying dental Xrays taken of an ex-convict charged in the 1974 murders of a Crystal Lake mother and daughter, realized that the ex-convict's teeth matched those of the bite mark in the Milone case.

The ex-convict, Richard Macek, 29, was charged with the murders of Nancy Lossman, 26, and her daughter Lisa, 3, in their Crystal Lake home, after Levine linked Xrays of his teeth to a bite mark on Mrs. Lossman's right breast.

Levine now believes Macek's teeth match the bite mark found on Miss Kandel's thigh.

Lack of quorum costs village $177

The lack of a quorum at the Oct. 25 Elk Grove Village Plan Commission meeting the cost the village $177 in wasted fees. Despite having only four members present Oct. 25, the plan commission went ahead with a public hearing on a zoning amendment dealing with coin-operated amusement devices and centers. Associate Village Atty. George Knickerbocker says because the hearing lacked a quorum of commission members, the legality of the meeting is jeopardized and said the hearing will have to be held again. The Oct. 25 hearing costs, which will have to be duplicated, were $20 for publishing a legal notice, $122 for the 61-page transcript of the hearing, and $35 for the appearance of a village witness, George Estes. Knickerbocker said there will be no double-billing for his time at the two hearings.

Guss may seek Palatine top spot

Palatine Trustee Robert J. Guss is expected to announce Thursday he will seek the Republican Party's nomination for village president at the Dec. 4 local GOP convention. Guss said Tuesday he will announce his plans Thursday, but did not reveal if he would seek the party's nod. Sources close to the 41-year-old Guss, however, have said he has decided to run for the spot which will be vacated by incumbent Wendell E. Jones who has said he will not seek reelection. Trustee Fred J. Zajonc, a Republican reelected as an independent two years ago, Monday announced he will run for the village president post.

Major confrontation threatened in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — New fighting exploded in Beirut Tuesday with prospects for a major confrontation between advancing Arab League peace-keeping troops and Christian commanders who vowed to "open fire" on the peace force.

Rightist and leftist military communiques said fierce fighting and artillery duels erupted on all fronts in the capital Tuesday night, from the gutted port district in the north to the front-line suburbs south of the city.

"The western and southern sectors of Beirut are being subjected to indiscriminate shelling with artillery and rockets," a leftist broadcast said. "All fronts in the mountains are under heavy artillery, mortar and rocket bombardment."

A leftist army spokesman said Christian forces in south Lebanon, "aided by Israeli artillery," had shelled leftist positions near Ain Ebel, a Christian border village which has developed close security ties with Israel.

Moslem and Christian gunmen also battled on the outskirts of the leftist-held northern port of Tripoli, a rightist communique said.

The commander of the Arab League peace force warned that he was ready to use force to get his troops into position on the front lines and carry out the League's peace plan.

Officers of the rightist Lebanese army faction loyal to Gen. Hanna Said told reporters they had warned President Elias Sarkis they would "open fire" if any of the 30,000 Arab forces advanced on Christian rightist positions.

At the same time, disgruntled rightist militiamen led an estimated 15,000 demonstrators in east Beirut who set up barricades and burned tires in the first public display against the entry of the Arab forces.

The protestors carried placards saying, "We reject the entry of Arab troops into our areas."

Units of the Syrian-dominated Arab League forces have moved into positions northeast and southeast of the capital for an expected sweep on Beirut itself and eventual deployment along the confrontation lines dividing the city into Moslem leftist and Christian rightist sectors.

It was unclear when — or if — the Syrian-dominated League troops would make their next move into the rightist-held territory lying between their mountain positions and the capital.

The official Damascus radio announced Tuesday evening that the deployment of the force had been "postponed for 24 hours."

"If Syrian troops advanced on the town of Kahhaleh or any other front, we would be forced to open fire," said officers of right-wing army units based neart he Christian "capital" of Jounieh, 12 miles northeast of Beirut.

The rightist units formed part of the Lebanese army, which split into several factions during the 19 months of civil war. From their positions near Kahhaleh six miles southeast of Beirut these rightist units could shell the peacekeeping troops if they moved down the main Beirut-Damascus highway.

The Arab force mut pass through the area and through rightist positions in order to open the highway to the capital.

Teens still lacking facts on birth control methods

Dist. 214's health classes, but teachers do not have to discuss the subject if they don't want to.

Supt. Edward Gilbert says the option is left up to the teachers because they can best determine if their particular class is amenable to a discussion of contraception.

Teachers are required, however, to discuss premarital sex, abortion, teenage marriage and divorce as part of the family living unit regardless of class interest, says Richard Kinneman, Dist. 214's coordinator for athletic and driver's education.

KINNEMAN BELIEVES most health teachers do "touch on" contraception even though it's not required, but notes that "as in all subjects, some teachers do a better job than others."

High School Dist. 211 has no districtwide health curriculum and administrators say they do not know if contraception is being taught.

"Unmarried kids are having sex and adults can't keep pretending it isn't happening," says Barbara, an unwed 19-year-old mother. "Obviously kids aren't getting sex education at home, so if the schools don't assume responsibility for this, we're just going to have more and more unwed mothers."

Lack of birth control information isn't always the problem. Many girls are fully aware of the different contraceptives on the market and where they can be obtained, but they don't use the knowledge they have, says Mary Anderson, co-teacher of Dist. 211's Preparation for Life program for pregnant adolescents.

"They're ready to be sexually active, but they're not at the point emotionally where they can come to terms with their actions and take precauions," she says. "They figure they're removed from taking responsibility for their actions if they say they didn't plan to have sex, but got carried away with the moment."

SOME GIRLS decide not to use birth control just to see if they really can get pregnant and others intentionally get pregnant to win more freedom from their parents or to get their boyfriends to marry them, Mrs. Anderson says. Still other girls say they got pregnant because they wanted to have someone, a baby, who would need and lov them.

Pregnancy and marriage has become a quick way out of unhappy homes for large numbers of adolescents, Ms. Michelin says.

"Kids are in love with love because they have no one to share their affection with," she says.

Denise, 18, says she probably wouldn't have a 1-year-daughter now had someone listened to her and taken an interest in her problems when she was younger.

"Whenever I needed someone, there was never anyone there," she says.

SHE BITTERLY recalls being raped one night the summer after she was in eighth grade and running home crying to her mother.

"She didn't even ask why I was crying," Denise says. "She just said, 'You're drunk. Go to bed.' "

Desperate for an adult to talk to, she sought the help of a priest, but he just sent her home to talk to her parents.

Eventually someone did come along who was willing to listen to her and find out what she was all about and that someone became the father of her baby, though she never did marry him.

"GIRLS USE BABIES for a lot of problem-solving without realiing that all they're doing is creating another problem," says Mrs. Anderson. "More sex education isn't the answer in these cases."

What's needed, she says, is more open talk in the schools and the homes about the methods that should or should not be used to solve problems.

"Pregnancy is just a symptom of deeper problems," Mrs. Anderson says. "I haven't seen a pregnant girl yet who hasn't had some other problem."

Whatever is the answer to the growing problem of teen-age pregnancies it must be found quickly. Until something is done, children will continue raising children and the implications of this for society are most frightening, Ms. Michelin says.

Studies by the March of Dimes have found that the intelligence quotient is lowest for children of parents who are at the beginning or end of child-bearing years and that 60 per cent of the children born to teen-agers are becoming delinquent before the age of 10, Stickle says.

"We're dealing with the health of future citizens and something has to be done to safeguard this," he says.

Legally dead woman kept alive for fetus

DENVER (UPI) — Colorado General Hospital officials Tuesday said an accident victim declared dead earlier in the week was being kept alive by artificial means in an attempt to save her 15-week-old fetus.

Ted Wren, director of public information for CGH, said the woman, Linda Culbertson, 29, was in "very critical condition" Tuesday. "There is no neurological (brain) activity, but she is being kept alive by means of respirators, heart machines and intravenous injections," Wren said.

Carter's role in Soviet, China relations viewed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some foreign policy experts believe the Carter administration will face a development that never existed during the Kissinger years — ending or easing the cold war between China and the Soviet Union.

The experts are reading and analyzing such signals as reduction in the Soviet propaganda campaign against the Chinese and the fact that the Chinese ambassador did not make his customary walkout from the Soviet October Day ceremonies in Moscow.

Ray Cline, former director of intelligence for the State Department and now director of the Georgetown University Center for Strategic and International studies, said the death of Mao Tse-tung was the crucial event.

"It seems plausible to me," he said, "that the disappearance of such a nationalistic and ideological figure will lead to a reduction in the intensity of the conflict. It would be reduced from the theological and ideological level, to a normal dispute between nations.

"There are still good reasons, — territorial, ethnic and psychological — for continuing some kind of dispute, but there will be an easing of tensions."

Informed sources, who cannot be further identified because of their policy positions, say experts like Cline are overreacting to minor signals. They think any easing of tension has been one-sided on the part of the Soviet Union, and that the Chinese will remain implacably opposed to Soviet influence.

These sources say Chinese officials have gone out of their way to stress the continuity of Chinese foreign policy despite the death of Mao and Chou En-Lai.

Prof. Franz Michael of the George Washington University institute of Sino-Soviet studies has been predicting an end to the Moscow-Peking dispute for years, and now thinks it has come about.

"Whatever you call them, both the Chinese and the Soviets are Marxists-Leninists," he said. "They are birds of a feather and they will go back together."

Where does this leave the United States, which had taken advantage of the rivalry to establish an informal but useful triangular balance of power?

"Out," said Michael. "Balance of power was a 19th Century idea which never really fit the real world, anyway. Detente without ideology, as Kissinger practiced, was nonsense."

President-elect Jimmy Carter

Linguists excited about President-elect's speech

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Linguists say Jimmy Carter would be making a big mistake to try to mute his Southern accent when he becomes president of all the people.

In telephone interviews, four experts on language said they were excited over the prospect of a president whose speech pattern is dramatically different. But they disagreed over whether Carter is bound to lose some of his accent, even involuntarily.

"By not trying to talk Walter Cronkite speech, he's evidencing the legitimacy of the varieties of English," said Roger Shuy of Washington's Center for Applied Linguistics at Georgetown University.

"He's showing that America is not made up of just one way of talking any more than of just one way of thinking."

At the University of South Carolina, visiting professor Raven McDavid, whom Shuy calls "the grand old man of southern accents" said "Carter probably can't change, and he shouldn't even if he could."

McDavid, a native of Greenville, S.C., and editor of a linguistic atlas of southern speech, quotes a colleague, "When a man tries to adjust a form of speech so that you can't identify his background, you wonder what else he is trying to hide."

McDavid said Carter "took an awful chance which his low-key, undramatic approach," but his "participatory style of speaking" may have helped him win the election.

"He wasn't talking to the people, he was talking with them," said McDavid.

"It was far removed from Lyndon Johnson's exultations. He wasn't saying 'I will do this' but 'we can do this.' He wasn't saying the 'grrret stet of Georgia,' he was speaking the language of plain folks, and that heped him, particularly with black voters."

But George Bozzini, director of English for international students at George Washington University, predicted Carter's accent would slowly fade.

"When he goes back to Georgia in a year's time, people will notice the difference," Bozzini said.

"You can't help but assimilate. He's going to come on as the American president, not as a southerner. He'll be talking to a wider audience; any speaker considers the audience."

Dr. Faye L. Kelly, who teaches the history of English at American University said southerners are particularly conscious of accents.

ELIZABETH RAY, whose love life in Washington led to the downfall of a powerful congressman, Tuesday said she is suing "those responsible" for newspaper ads implying she will appear in a Minneapolis strip joint. Speaking from her room near the Pheasant Run Playhouse in St. Charles — where she is appearing in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter" — Miss Ray said it's simply "not true."

Metropolitan briefs

Investigation urged into death of birds

A Chicago ornithologist Tuesday proposed a federal investigation into the deaths of thousands of Lake Michigan water fowl every year. William J. Beecher, director of the Chicago Academy of Science, said the disease killing the birds may be caused by metallic pollutants, poisonous algae or botulism — a food poisoning which also affects human beings.

Beecher said loons, gulls and white-winged scoters have been dying by the thousands every year. The dead birds have been found along the lake shore at the Indiana Dunes and far up the lake's eastern coast. He said such deaths normally should not occur in fresh water lakes.

Nurses cited for contempt

Circuit Court Judge Walter P. Dahl Tuesday declared striking nurses at Cook County and Oak Forest hospitals in contempt of court and fined their union $1,000 per day until they obey his back-to-work order. Dahl said the 1,000 nurses, who have been on strike for seven days, were "in direct violation" of his order issued last Thursday.

He said the $1,000 a day fine against the Illinois Nurses Assn. will be retroactive from the day his injunction took effect — Friday — and will continue until Nov. 18 when it will increase to $10,000 if the nurses are still on the picket lines. In a three-hour hearing, Dahl rejected arguments by attorneys for INA saying the union was not responsible for the continued strike by the local unit of the association.

Illinois briefs

Fight on for top posts in legislature

A mad scramble is on for four top leadership posts left open in the Illinois General Assembly, and with party caucuses to fill them just weeks away, no clear front-runners have emerged. Of the "big five" who guided legislation and party affairs the past two years, only House Speaker William Redmond, D-Bensenville, is still in the legislature. He is expected to hand onto his job in January but several Democrats, including Clyde Choate, Anna, are eyeing the speaker's chair.

The other four leaders are gone. Senate President Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, ran for attorney general and lost. William Harris, R-Pontiac, quit as Senate minority leader and lost his race for secretary of state. House majority leader Gerald Shea, D-Riverside, retired and James Washburn, R-Morris, failed in his congressional bid. The sudden power void has triggered a fierce leadership struggle. Among Senate Democrats, three loyal to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley — including his son Richard — are frequently mentioned as Partee's successor. The other two are Senators Philip Rock and Thomas Hynes, both of Chicago.

The race also will involve a candidate put forth by the so-called "Crazy Eight," a group of independent Democrats who banded together last session to force Daley Democrats to accept one of them, Sen. Terry Bruce, Olney, as an assistant majority leader. Another of the "Crazy Eight," Sen. Bill Morris, Waukegan, said the group will probably push Bruce for Senate president.

Senate Republicans, meanwhile, must choose from David Shapiro, Amboy; Bradley Glass, Northbrook; Don Moore, Midlothian; John Graham, Barrington; David Regner, Mount Prospect; Stanley Weaver, Urbana, and James Philip, Elmhurst, all mentioned as having leadership ambitions.

Walker to return to law practice

Gov. Daniel Walker said Tuesday he will return to practice in January and, althoungh he won't "carp" at Governor-elect James Thompson's new administration, he will continue to voice his opinions on policy matters. Walker told a new conference he definitely will not appoint himself state treaturer and he said he has not been in contact with Jimmy Cartr or his staff about a federal job.

"I undoubtedly will be going back to the private practice of law in January," he said. "But I'm not foreclosing totally something else that might come along in the business world, the educational world or the governmental world." Asked if he will be a critic of the Thompson administration, Walker said, "I'm not going to go around carping. I don't believe in that."

Walker said he will continue to be involved in public affairs because "it's in my nature to be involved in those kinds of things." He said he also sees a role for himself in the Democratic party. "Politically, I'm not going to give up my independence and I'm going to continue to speak out for an independent brand of Democratic politics in this state," he said.

Local control may be lost under Tully plan

Tuesday repeated warnings of tax increases and said that if assessments were not lowered starting with next year's quadrennial reassessment, the state could step in and lower the multiplier which would hurt all school districts in the county.

But school officials said Tuesday they are counting on the inflated values and the full 22 per cent assessment to help them out of a financial crisis that has forced them to fire teachers, close schools and cut programs recently.

One school board member, Ilene E. Cablk, Skokie Dist. 69, even predicted that Tully's proposal could force suburban schools into a state of financial collapse.

"Cook County has not yet seen its first school district bankruptcy. We would maintain that the adoption of the assessor's proposal would bring that day closer to hand," she said.

AN INFLATED TAX BASE does not have to lead to higher taxes as Tully has predicted, school officials said. Locally elected boards still determine the amount of tax dollars property owners will pay, they said.

"I fail to understand the underlying implication of the proposal — that local taxing bodies such as boards of education cannot be considered responsible enough to deal with an increased tax base," Kluxdal said.

"Apparently there is a concern that compliance with the (22 per cent assessment) ordinance, by the assessor, will mean that all local taxing bodies will immediately levy taxes substantially in excess of what they require and that such increases will be blamed on the county assessor."

Julian D'Esposito, attorney for the Illinois Assn. of School Boards, said, "Simply put, increased assessments don't mean increased taxes. They mean revenue-generating capacity over a four-year period.

"IF TAXES INCREASE, that is because locally elected school board members, park board members, library board members, village board members, have decided that their residents seek continued service," he said.

David Zuehlke, 911 See-Gwun, Mount Prospect, the only nonschool official to speak at Tuesday's hearing, said that his neighborhood school will be closed because of a lack of funds.

"Like most people, I don't look forward to higher taxes. But I am painfully aware of the problems of the schools," he said.

Tully's proposal would put such a heavy lid on school taxes that the local school board would no longer have financial control of the village's schools, he said.

Cop knows loneliness of the beat

(my wife). Then I saw I was bringing my negativism home with me. There are too many things in life to enjoy to take home the ambience surrounding the job."

HILLYER DRAWS a long drag on a cigaret. "Now I just do the best job I can. Then leave it all behind when I walk out of the office."

But even that is still difficult for Hillyer. As a policeman, his home schedule can be interrupted at any time by an emergency or by the sudden illness of an on-duty officer.

Hillyer also is a member of the Combined Counties Police Assn., another job-related activity which ties up his off-duty time, including weekends, when he has them.

Like most Wheeling officers, he has his complaints about the department, but is thankful he doesn't work in a city where "you're always up against the scum and slime all day."

He hates even thinking about working in Chicago, where cops' lives are on the line constantly.

"I've never really been seriously threatened on the job," Hillyer says. "Nobody can stay alert all the time. But to the extent you can be at any given time, you had damn well better be alert."

HILLYER WAS a 31-year-old rookie when he came to the force five years ago after a variety of jobs ranging from working for American Hospital Supply to performing as a disc jockey for a Texas radio station.

He attended Evanston High School, but didn't receive his diploma until serving in the Marine Corps where he completed his education.

He's 36 now, "going on 50," he says and he feels lucky to be working with Wheeling's finest for the past five years.

The heavy eyebrows come together as Hillyer squints in the light of an on-coming car.

"You know, it's not enough just to be out on the street, just doing the job. I want to help. I want to do something for people," he says.

SQUAD 173 pulls into the Wheeling Police Dept. and rolls to a halt.

In the several hours Hillyer patrolled the village after dusk, he has spot-checked for speeding cars, stopped a man for running a red light, taken a theft report from a man whose entire summer wardrobe was stolen from his car trunk, checked the local stores, found a lost license plate on the street, and returned a lost license plate to a happy Wheeling woman.

All that's left is the final bookwork for Officer Hillyer, who sits in the corner of the room making out his reports. He takes his tie off and begins to relax.

He jokes with the men coming in for the next shift and with the men going off duty.

"How about going out for a beer," suggests one cop. Hillyer, who has changed clothes and now is dressed in an old army jacket and unpressed pants, agrees and both men walk out the door.

For a while, Tim Hillyer won't be alone.

A "customer." Patrolman Tim Hillyer takes a theft report from a man whose entire summer wardrobe was stolen from his car trunk.

Berkley fair Saturday

The Berkley School PTA's annual fun fair is from 11 a.m to 3 p.m. Saturday at Rand Junior High School, 2550 N. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

A moon walk, 10 games, a cake walk and boutique with handmade items will be featured. Pizza and hot dogs will be available.

Flu shots for ill, elderly Thursday

Cafeterias at Buffalo Grove High School, 1100 W. Dundee Rd., and Prospect High School, 801 W. Kensington Rd., will be used Thursday for swine flu immunization clinics for the elderly and chronically ill.

The clinics will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Persons who are 60 years of age and older are eligible for the bivalent vaccine, a special serum that protects against both swine and A-Victoria flu.

The chronically ill are persons between 18 and 59 years of age who have chronic diseases of the heart, lungs, kidneys, or diabetes or poor health in general. The chronically ill will need a doctor's authorization to receive the bivalent vaccine.

$2 million office park going up at Hicks-Euclid

A $2 million office park is under construction at Hicks Road and Euclid Avenue in Rolling Meadows.

Mona-Loa office park is being developed by Lakewoods Industries of Schaumburg and will be managed by Lakewoods Realty.

Greg Loesch, director of sales for the firm, said 5,000 square feet of office space was leased earlier this month to a large corporation planning to locate its district office in the city.

He declined to identify the corporation but said it has offices throughout the nation.

The park consists of 10 buildings with a total of 75,000 square feet of office space. Each building can be divided into as many as 12 units. Loesch said some buildings may have only one tenant while others will be dived.

Parking for 295 cars will be provided. Landscaping in the parking areas and interior streets will be maintained by the developer. The architect for the park is Joseph K. Plepel of Elmhurst.

The masonry buildings are in clusters of three squares joined by a central core.

A cupola roof with wood beam trusses covers the roof top air conditioning and heating units.

Models are expected to be open Dec. 15.

Did voters lose?

Funding limits cut campaigns

by ARNOLD SAWISLAK
(A news analysis)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Were Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford shortchanged in the 1976 presidential campaign?

That is an opinion shared by both Democratic and Republican professional politicians — that the $21.8 million allotted to each major party presidential candidate was not enough to finance an adequate national campaign.

The Nixon campaign went through at least $60 million in 1972, including, by one estimate, $1 million on "campaign junk" — buttons, bumper stickers, plastic hats, paper dresses and other gimcracks. It hired hundreds of people — including a team of burglars — with illegal and in some cases extorted contributions.

It was the "horrible example" used to clinch the argument for outlawing privately financed presidential campaigns.

But 1972 is not the standard by which 1976 need be measured. People who know the way the political process works can point to actual cases where the candidates had to eliminate legitimate campaign activities. One such might be campaign travel.

There were many states that did not see either candidate during the entire campaign. When money is limited, campaign planners have to eliminate stops in small states to concentrate on the populous ones.

The doctrine of "one-person, one-vote" tells us that a voter in North Dakota is no more and no less important than one in New York. The law obviously should not dictate to candidates how to run their campaigns, but it also should not discourage citizen access to the candidates.

It is true the President's strategists didn't want to send Ford out until the end of the campaign and that Carter set the pattern for rest weekends at home from the start of his long presidential quest.

So it is possible that no more voters would have seen the candidates in the flesh had there been more money to spend on travel. It might even be argued that this was an improvement — that the candidates did not exhaust themselves running around the country giving meaningless speeches to manufactured crowds.

The question is whether this slower pace actually improved the campaign? The answer has to be no. There is little evidence that the 1976 campaign gave citizens any more information to use in judging the candidates than they had in previous years.

The money that wasn't used for traveling and campaign gimmicks also wasn't used to distribute information on the candidates' proposals and programs to deal with national problems. There were fewer fancy buttons and funny hats this year, but there also were fewer booklets, brochures and advertisements giving the candidates' issue positions.

And with the vote totals showing another drop in turnout — almost down to 53 per cent — the first publicly financed presidential campaign obviously failed to excite public interest in the most important function of citizenship.

Public financing may have eliminated the corruptive influence of fat cat campaign contributions; in limiting the opportunities to both inform and arouse the public, it may also have hurt the election process.

There is no guarantee that giving presidential candidates more public funds to spend would improve their campaigns or increase voting. But it might be worth spending a few million dollars more in 1980 to find out.

The way we see it

Dixon heir not Daley's choice

Secretary of State-elect Alan J. Dixon is one lucky Democrat.

He got elected, despite the fact that Mayor Daley slated him for the wrong office.

Dixon, who has gained popularity statewide in the office of state treasurer, had wanted to go after the governor's chair. But Daley picked Secy. of State Michael Howlett for that race. Howlett succeeded in evicting Daley's nemesis, Dan Walker, from the governor's mansion, but went down in disastrous defeat against the Republicans' Jim Thompson.

In fact, Daley suffered a number of rebukes from voters last Tuesday. Except Dixon. He was the bright spot.

Dixon won the patronage-rich office of secretary of state — a beautiful position from which to advance his ambitions in two or four years.

The Democrats' original plan was to have Dixon vacate the state treasurer's post (which still has two years to run) at the last minute so the new Democratic governor, Michael Howlett, rather than the maverick Democrat Walker, would fill it by appointment.

Reportedly it was arranged for Howlett to name State Rep. Charles Keller, D-Effingham, as the new state treasurer.

Well, Howlett won't be in a position to make the appointment.

The new governor will be Thompson, and Dixon now has the alternatives of letting an antimachine Democrat or a Republican fill the post.

He didn't say which he will do before leaving on a post-election vacation. But he does plan to chat with Walker when he returns.

Walker has been conciliatory since his defeat in the primary, and in exchange for some back scratching it's conceivable he might appoint a state treasurer acceptable to Daley.

On the other hand, Thompson's almost sure to name a Republican to the post.

We think before Dixon permits a lame duck governor to name the new state treasurer, he should examine the implications for citizens of the state, not just his party's leader.

It was the voters of the state, not Daley, who gave Dixon victory last week. They liked his style and his apparent ability to stay above the demands of the Daley machine.

While Dixon would be foolish to declare war on Daley as Walker did, he would be wise to cultivate his independent, what's-best-for-the-people approach.

The plan was to have him serve out as much as possible of his term and to have the new governor appoint the new state treasurer.

That was a good approach, and we hope Dixon will stick to it.

Free press wins a small victory at UNESCO

A tentative step was taken on behalf of world press freedom last weekend in Nairobi, Kenya.

The event was a vote by a United Nations commission at the U.N. Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) conference which derailed, for at least two years, a Soviet proposal to make governments responsible for the press in their countries.

The issue has not been entirely resolved because a confrontation is still possible when the proposal comes up for consideration by UNESCO two years from now.

However, during that time U.N. delegates from countries around the world will have a chance to ponder the resolution and the cogent arguments against it made by American representatives at the conference.

The resolution, drafted by the Soviet Union, expresses the Communist viewpoint on the role of the press and other media in society. It refers to the "use" of the mass media by governments, and in a key section, says governments will be responsible for international activities of the press under their jurisdiction.

The implication is clear — under the resolution, foreign governments could expect the American government to somehow control the activities of correspondents from newspapers and television when they go overseas, something that runs counter to the First Amendment to the United States Constitution.

During the next two years, other nations, particularly those in the Third World where press freedom is little understood, will be able to consider the Communist view of the press and contrast it to the view that the press is an independent institution free to criticize the state.

If inroads can be made for the Western concept of press freedom, citizens of many countries and not just the American press, will be well served.

Schools aren't hurt by proposal-Larson

The Herald's story of Thursday, Oct. 14, concerning the Hoffman Group's Colony Lake development and the Village of Schaumburg's recent board action concerning this development misses the point in one instance and misrepresents in another.

Your story quite correctly refers to Schaumburg Village policy restricting multi-family development to 15 per cent three-bedroom to avoid overcrowding schools. The development approved would contain 50 per cent two-bedroom units with the balance three-bedroom and two-bedroom with den. Such a development with typical multiple family density would indeed have an undesirable impact on the school district. Even though the developer donated an eight-acre school site, (located in Hoffman Estates, by the way) committed $100 per three-bedroom unit and $25 per two-bedroom unit to the school district and agreed to the extension of Salem Drive from Bode to Golf as well as donations to the fire department, cultural center, hospital fund along with $10,000 worth of playground equipment, a 2-½ acre park site, a lake with a 25 foot deed-out (not easement as indicated in your story) around its banks and two tennis courts to the park district — even with all this the zoning board of appeals and the Schaumburg Village Board would have denied Colony Lake's zoning were it not for the low density of the development, 4.6 units per acre.

Were this development to be built as single family detached housing more K-8 children and more high school children would be generated. As approved, Colony Lake's density is almost three times lower than any other townhouse development in Schaumburg and will generate 40 per cent less grade school and 120 per cent less high school children while fiscally impacting both the village and the school district less than that of a single family development of similar size.

THIS BRINGS ME to the matter of misrepresentation. Your story reads "development guidelines recently were revised by a special village committee whose members recommend relaxing the rules because of the diminishing amount of vacant land in the village." Now as a village trustee I would assume that whatever recommendations made by a special committee would come to me. To date I have seen or heard no recommendations concerning the relaxing of any development guidelines.

Voting, campaign draw more comment

I wish to thank the election judges and voters of Palatine Precincts 26, 37 and 42 for their decision to lend voting machines to the voters in Precinct 38.

Precinct 38 has between 1,400 and 1,700 registered voters. The county clerk provided only 5 Votomatic machines for those voters. It took as long as 2½ hours of waiting in line for a voter in that precinct to be able to cast his ballot and at no time during the day was the wait less than 1½ hours.

Unaccountably, other precincts in Palatine with as few as 750 voters were provided with as many as six machines. The county clerk was at a loss to explain this disparity and was at a further loss to remedy the problem.

It is impossible to know how many people in Precinct 38 were disenfranchised because of the enormous time involved in order to cast their ballots. One thousand ten of the registered voters in Precinct 38 were able to vote and that total would have been several hundred less had it not been for the voting machines provided by you. Thank you very much.

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to all who supported my campaign for State representative.

Effective and honest government is extremely important to me; for that reason I sought public office. I believe that we raised some important issues. For example, the disclosure of some state employes being bused at taxpayers' expense. This free ride system has since been discontinued.

Although my 43,500 plus votes in the 2nd Legislative District were not enough to send me to Springfield, I do not feel unsuccessful. The over-all experience has been a good one.

Bring back family hour

Television is a family medium, much like the daily newspaper.

It enters the home as a welcome guest, and all members of the family are generally free to view it.

In recent years, there has been growing criticism of the kinds of programming networks aired during hours when children are most likely to be watching — in the hours just after dinner. The air waves during the time were filled with violence, and there was a growing tolerance of sex-oriented material.

We greeted with enthusiasm the networks' decision to police this family viewing time to ensure shows suitable for children.

We were stunned by a recent ruling by Federal District Judge Warren J. Ferguson of the Los Angeles district, in which he found the family programming concept illegal.

CBS has decided to appeal that ruling, and we applaud their decision.

"This decision is contrary to accepted American concepts," said John A. Schneider, president of CBS Broadcast Group. "Voluntary industry standards of quality, conduct and ethics on everything from electrical appliances to stock trading have long been in effect all across the range of professional and business activities.

"To rule that broadcasters cannot, however openly and publicly, create a set of programming standards consonant with the demonstrated wishes of the American people, leaves only two alternatives — no standards or standards imposed by government."

We suspect the judge had in mind no standards at all, and we hope his decision is quickly reversed.

Home computers on the horizon

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

Remember, not so many years ago, when pocket calculators were introduced? The ingenious little devils cost hundreds of dollars then. Today you see them advertised for $9.98, and even some of the fanciest ones sell for less than $100.

The same thing has been happening with the grandpas of the calculators: full-fledged computers can now be obtained for little more than the cost of a standard automobile, and the age of the in-home computer is no longer a far-off dream.

Example: In 1954 IBM introduced its system 705 computer. It took up a good-size room, which had to be specially wired, dust proofed and air conditioned. It needed a small and highly trained crew to operate it, and rented for a modest $22,000 per month.

SOME MONTHS AGO IBM introduced its system 5100 computer. It has more computing power than did its predecessor, 705. But the 5100 weighs only 50 pounds, is about the size of a two-suiter suitcase, plugs into household current and comes with a carrying case so you can take it from home to office. Price: as low as $9,000 to purchase outright.

A number of other firms, such as Digital Equipment and Wang, also are making minicomputers, and the next revolution in this revolutionary industry could well be aimed at the homeowner and small businessman.

Indeed, a study entitled "Data Processing in 1980-1985" (Wiley-Interscience, 1976) states that: "The social value of home data processing is potentially enormous in terms of educational applications alone; if entertainment, games and other applications also are considered, this social value is augmented by commercial desirability. At present the potential market includes approximately 100 million homes in North America, Western Europe and Japan . . . The technological feasibility is unquestionable . . . A reasonable working (price) would be, initially, $2,000 for a complete system . . . The possible emergence of home computers may well generate a totally new massive market for minicomputer applications in the 1980s."

THESE COMPUTERS, linked up with two-way cable TV or videophone (now in existence) and with video tapes and discs, will allow a family to obtain a complete college education, from the best professors and libraries in the land, without stepping out of doors. They will do your bookkeeping, figure your income taxes, monitor your home for security and energy conservation purposes, help you with recipes, feed you stock market quotes, permit innumerable transactions (bank deposits, purchases, payments and so on) at the touch of buttons. In addition, they'll entertain you with an array of games, quizzes, puzzles, mazes and other diversions, in a range limited only by the human imagination.

For many small businesses the current crop of minicomputers are already earning more than their keep as bookkeepers, inventory controllers, tax preparers, researchers, statisticians and problem solvers.

We may look at computers as exotic monsters today, but before long we'll be considering them as a afmily pet. The future is upon us.

Paddock's Roe to join press institute

David A. Roe, vice president and general manager of the Paddock Corp., will become an associate director of the American Press Institute in Reston, Va., Nov. 29.

The institute is a nonprofit working center for the continuing education and training of newspaper people in the United States and Canada. The Paddock Corp. publishes nine daily Heralds in Cook County's northwest suburbs and six weekly Heralds in Lake County.

Roe, 40, joined Paddock three years ago as assistant to the president and director of sales and marketing and became vice president and general manager a year later.

He previously was with the Washington Post for 3½ years, serving as assistant to the president the last 1½ years. He joined the Post as manager of special projects and later became production comptroller and assistant to the general manager.

David A. Roe

FROM 1959 TO 1969 he was employed by the 10 weekly Hollister Newspapers in the North Shore suburbs, that now are owned by Time Inc. as Pioneer Press. He joined the Hollister group as a management trainee and successively became associate editor, managing editor, editor and publisher, and vice president, publisher and director. He was cofounder and half owner of Press Publishing Co., which started four of these newspapers in 1966 and 1967 as part of the Hollister group.

He received a master's degree in journalism "with highest distinction" from Northwestern University in 1959 and a bachelor's degree in journalism there in 1958.

He lives in Inverness, with hs wife, Judy, and their sons, Kevin, 11, and Mark and Matthew, both 9.

Dow falls to 10-month low

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dow Jones industrial average suffered its third consecutive loss and fell to a 10-month low Tuesday as traders sold amid post-election uncertainties in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow lost 2.91 points to 930.77, the lowest level since it finished at 929.63 Jan. 16. The blue-chip average has fallen 35.32 points since Jimmy Carter beat Gerald Ford for the presidency last week. It has lost 29.67 points the past three sessions, including 9.39 Monday.

One observer characterized the stock market as being in a "lame duck" position, since investors have to wait until President-elect Carter has spelled out his economic policies sometime early next year. Many experts said the market is likely to drift.

OTHER AVERAGES followed the Dow. The NYSE common stock index lost 0.15 to 53.14 and the average price of a common share decreased by nine cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, lost 0.29 to 99.32.

Declines topped advances, 869 to 560, among the 1,889 issues crossing the tape. But there were 460 unchanged issues, reflecting some investor uncertainty.

Volume totaled 19,210,000 shares, up from the 16,520,000 traded Monday.

Analysts said investors, fearful of inflation rekindling, were disturbed by indications the Federal Reserve Board may be tightening credit in light of a recent surge in the nation's money supply. They noted industrial commodities prices rose sharply last month.

Strike threatened at Harvester

The United Auto Workers union announced Tuesday its 43,000 members at International Harvester plants across the nation will go on strike at midnight Nov. 17 unless a new contract is reached by then. The UAW issued the strike notice to the Chicago-based manufacturer of trucks, farm and construction equipment on the same day Deere and Co., resumed production after a 39-day strike by the UAW affecting its 27,00 workers. The third of the "Big Three" farm implement manufacturers, Caterpillar of Peoria, said its negotiation with the UAW had been in recess since Oct. 27. The company said no new talks were scheduled. Deere and Co. served as the UAW "model" in this year's negotiations and the spokesman said the union was seeking a contract with International Harvester along the lines of the Deere agreement, reached last Friday.

State home-loan plan unveiled

Gov. Daniel Walker Tuesday announced a new program designed to increase the number of mortgages and home-improvement loans made to persons with "modest incomes" in the six-county Chicago metropolitan area. Walker said the program is voluntary but will put pressure on some institutions to make loans they might otherwise reject. Under the program, a person in the six-county area whose mortgage or home-improvement loan application is turned down may appeal the decision to a committee. The committee will consist of five savings and loan officials. If they also turn down the application, the case is forwarded to a committee of five persons from outside the industry. Walker said the savings and loan industry has guaranteed that if either committee decides a person should receive a loan, a lender will be found.

U.S. Steel accused of polluting

The Lake Michigan Federation, a Chicago-based environmental organization, Tuesday charged that U.S. Steel has been illegally dumping pollutants and refuse into Lake Michigan for 65 years. The charge was included in a brief filed in the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals by the federation. Thomas Eisele, deputy director of the federation, said U.S. Steel and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency are involved in a controversy about a new discharge permit, issued by the EPA for the U.S. Steel Gary Works plant. Eisele said the federation brief was filed "as a friend of the court."

ATT owes IRS money: report

The Internal Revenue Service, handcuffed by staff and funding limits, has failed to collect nearly $3 billion in taxes from the American Telephone and Telegrph Co. since 1966, a former IRS official says. ATT has used a variety of repair and depreciation loopholes to avoid paying the taxes, Lawrence Sloan says in an article due to be published next Monday in Tax Notes, a tax analysis journal. But a spokesman for ATT, one of the world's largest corporations, charged Sloan is "completely wrong," and said he apparently misunderstands the complexities of phone company tax regulations.

Natural gas cuts to hit industry

Predicted cutbacks in natural gas deliveries will fall almost entirely in industry this winter, and homeowners and small businesses are not likely to be affected even if the winter is unusually severe, Vice Chairman John H. Hollman III of the Federal Power Commission said Tuesday. Hollman was the opening witness at House hearings called by Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., on the effects of a projected 22 per cent reduction in interstate gas deliveries this winter. Dingell, chairman of the House Energy and Power subcommittee, said the planned cutbacks represent an increase of about 25 per cent over last winter's curtailments under firm contracts.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington D.C., Tuesday stayed the effect of the Federal Power Commission's order last week increasing natural gas prices. This bars the increase unless producers promise to refund the higher charges if they eventually lose in court. Full oral hearings are scheduled for Thursday before the appellate court in the suit brought by the American Public Gas Assn. against the FPC on behalf of consumer groups.

'Turkey ham' labeling opposed

Pork producers are cranking up a counterattack against a recent Agriculture Dept. decision under which processors can label a smoked turkey product as "turkey ham." "Consumers have fought for truth in labeling laws for years," protested J. Marvin Garner, executive vice president of the National Pork Producers Council, in a recent memo to hog farmers. He said the decision to allow the "turkey ham" labeling was "almost unbelievable." Garner called on farmers to swamp the Agriculture Dept. with messages protesting the action before Nov. 24, the last day for public comment on a pending department proposal to set new standards for cooked sausage products — such as hot dogs — made from poultry meat.

Auto Radio Bugs

by Ed Landwehr

Some of the auto radio trouble brought into the Landwehr's TV & Appliance Center shop is not caused by the radio at all but from sources in the automobile. Here are a few of the bugs:

Auto generator interference causes humming in the radio speaker. To stop it, clean and tighten all the generator connections and replace the condenser.

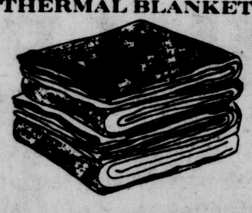

Sharp, crackling noises are usually loose connections on the ignition system. Tighten these on the distributor, coil and plugs and check ground wires, too.

Sometimes curb feelers and tire valves can cause static popping in the radio. Tighten curb feelers and use anti-static powder in the tires to solve this.

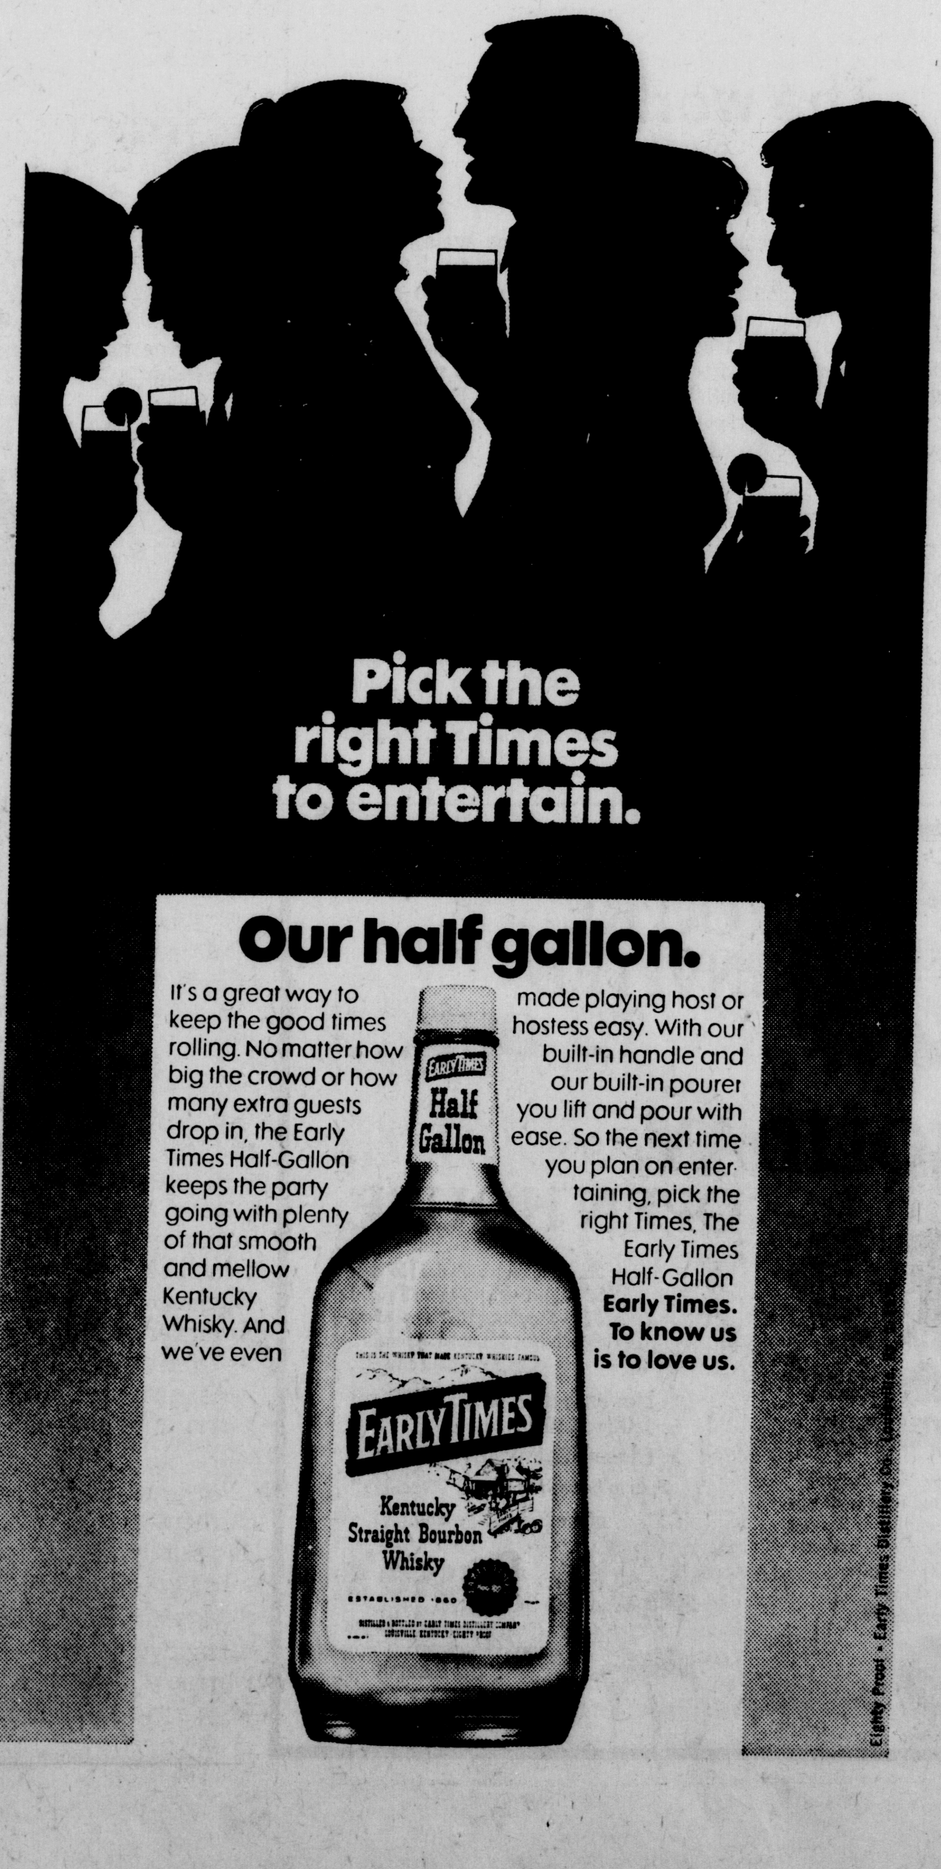

If these precautions do not help, bring your set over to 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights and we can service it on our shop bench. Or phone 255-0700 for any kind of electronic services from television to electric organs.

Police corruption in Boston: top cop

Boston Police Commissioner Robert J. DiGrazia said Tuesday he has evidence to support a report alleging widespread police corruption in Boston. DiGrazia also said he has accepted the "retirement" of a top department official, Deputy Supt. Joseph V. It also includes the North End, Government Center, Beacon Hill, Chinatown, the waterfront and shopping and business districts.

Flu ad campaign readied

Federal health officials readied a new publicity campaign Tuesday in an effort to overcome apparent lagging interest in the nationwide swine flu immunization program. Two new national television spots being prepared will emphasize the high communicability of influenza and how rapidly it spreads, according to Don Berreth. The other TV commercial-aimed at skepticism about the program-will illustrate reasons why persons should get immunized against the swine flu.

Viking robots hibernating

The two Viking robots are hibernating for a month on Mars and project scientists said Tuesday they have plenty of clues but no conclusions as to whether the red planet harbors life. But the results of three months of exploration by the automated spacecraft have shown that Mars once had the basic ingredients for living systems and still could support life of some form.

Women lawmakers up 1 per cent

With ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment at stake, the proportion of women in state legislatures increased only 1 per cent during the 1976 election, according to figures announced Tuesday. ERA was a central issue in many state legislative races. The overall outcome was claimed as a victory by both opponents and supporters of the proposed 27th amendment to the Constitution. The number of women increased from 91 to 102 in the state senates and from 523 to 583 in the houses of representatives. Forty-three states elected legislators last week.

U.N. votes against Africa

The U.N. General Assembly passed 10 resolutions against South Africa's apartheid policy of racial discrimination by landslide margins Tuesday, including demands for arms, trade and sports bans against the white regime. One of the strongest resolutions, adopted by a vote of 108-11 with 22 abstentions, proclaims "that the racist regime of South Africa is illegitimate and has no right to represent the people of South Africa." The United States voted against five of the resolutions and abstained on three. The two others were passed by consensus without a vote.

No Rhodesia stalemate: chief

The British chairman of the Rhodesia conference returned to Geneva Tuesday from a one-day trip to London, denying any stalemate at the talks but conceding that progress was going slower than he had hoped. Ivor Richard briefed British Foreign Secretary Anthony Crosland during a 24-hour trip to London on the status of the talks between four black nationalist leaders and the white minority regime on the future of Rhodesia. The conference has bogged down over the issue of fixing a date for Rhodesian independence under black majority rule..

1 year later, people recall 'Fitz' sinking in Superior

SAUTE STE. MARIE, Mich. (UPI) — The Edmund Fitzgerald, once called "the Monarch of the Great Lakes," and her 29-member crew have lain in their ice water sepulcher for a year.

The town of Sault Ste. Marie has not forgotten.

"People were just shocked that the Fitzgerald could go down," said Sandy Kucharczyk, receptionist at the locks' tourist information center.

"They are just awed that the Great Lakes could take a ship to the bottom with all the new communications equipment and technology they now have."

The 729-foot ore carrier, whose home port was Milwaukee, went down northwest of here on the evening of Nov. 10, 1975. Lake Superior, lashed by winds of 80 miles per hour, kicked up mountainous 25-foot waves that day in what some sailors called the worst lake storm in three decades.

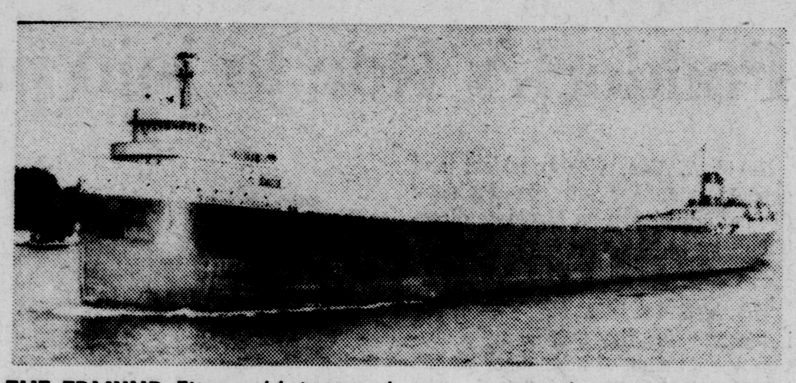

THE "FITZ" loaded with 26,216 tons of taconite ore pellets, was going to Detroit from Wisconsin.

The 17-year-old freighter's sudden disappearance baffled seamen for several days. The skipper of a nearby vessel said he had been on radio contact with the Fitz's captain, 63-year-old Ernest McSorley of Toledo, Ohio.

Then the Fitz vanished from his radar screen.

As is common in Lake Superior wrecks, no bodies were ever recovered. The sinking of the Fitz was the worse marine disaster on the Great Lakes in 17 years.

Superior is the coldest and cruelest of the big lakes, having swallowed up at least 550 ships who have dared her waters in the past several hundred years.

"Those were simple days back in 1965. Since then, hospitals as never before have had to think of supply and demand." Sister M. Amata.

Sister M. Amata

She keeps Holy Family Hospital in good working order

by ELEANOR RIVES

Sister M. Amata is a rare combination of business-like efficiency, cool logic, inner spirituality and human compassion.

Sitting there in her spotless white habit in the quiet, clean, uncluttered atmosphere of her executive office, she discussed matter of factly her recent appointment to the highest executive office of Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, that of president.

"Now I will have more time to do better some of the same things I was doing as executive vice-president," she said. "More time for community relations. More time to keep up with federal and state regulations for health care institutions, and to work more closely with the hospital's Governing Board. A well informed board is important."

THE GOVERNING BOARD consists of chairman Sister M. Alexandra, five other Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth order, two doctors and three laymen from the community. It functions precisely like the board of trustees of any large corporation, setting policy within which the administration develops internal policy.

And heading administration is Sister Amata, the soft spoken, middle-aged woman who keeps her mind as well as her 247-bed hospital in good working order.

Born in Wichita Falls, Tex., she developed a keen interest in nursing when, as a girl of 16, she did volunteer work in a hospital admitting office. When she decided to enter the convent, she looked for an order that had a hospital. She found it in the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth.

AFTER SISTER AMATA completed her nurse's training at St. Mary of Nazareth Hospital on Chicago's near-north side, she supervised a medical floor there for a year. Then she was transferred to a small 37-bed hospital in Taos, N. Mex., where she became a staff nurse.

"It was a wonderful year," she smiled. "I worked all departments, all shifts, with patients of all ages. I assisted with almost all the surgery. And I delivered three babies."

The following year she came back to the Chicago hospital to become assistant director of the school of nursing, at the same time taking courses at DePaul and Loyola Universities. Her education continued at Catholic University in Washington, D.C., for the next three years.

SHE RETURNED to St. Mary of Nazareth Hospital with a master's degree in nursing education, and a year later became director of the school of nursing, a post she held for 12 years.

Sister Amata joined Holy Family as administrator in 1965 when the hospital was only four years old. Later she fit into her busy schedule a special University of Chicago program for full-time executives, a two-year course of study that led to her master's degree in business administration.

"It was a wonderful experience," she said with enthusiasm. "I learned so much, studying with bankers, leaders of industry, attorneys, sales executives. I was the only woman in the program at that time, and the only female religious who had ever been in it."

IN HER YEARS with Holy Family Hospital, Sister Amata has seen a good many changes. "1965," she mused, "those were simple days in comparison."

"Health care was rather comfortable then, but the situation changed with Medicare in 1966," she went on. "We rejoiced that the elderly would get assistance. But none of us realized the tremendous amount of paper work, the endless record-keeping, the way hospitals would be put on the defensive to explain their costs."

Another area of change involved raising the status of hospital employes and making them more equal to other employes in terms of wages, salaries and benefits.

"WE HAVE TRIED to get salaries up and make the hospital an attractive place to work," she said. "Nurses these days can work in so many places other than a hospital — in industry, in government. We must be competitive."

She went on to explain that this is even more of a problem in food service, housekeeping and linen service. "As society becomes more affluent, it's difficult to attract people to these jobs," she said. "Who wants to wash dishes! Hospitals as never before have to think of supply and demand."

Sister Amata has seen a tremendous increase in the load of outpatient services at Holy Family — in radiology, pathology, nuclear medicine, neuro-physiology, physical therapy, respiratory therapy.

THE EMERGENCY department has grown from a one-room, five-cubicle unit to an 11-room department, each room individually equipped with all life-support systems. Today doctors in the emergency room can communicate with the ambulance driver, even read the ambulance patient's EKG. In 1965, the emergency department handled less than 9,000 cases; this year, there will be more than 20,000.

Sister Amata is intensely proud of the new intensive care and cardiac care units. The circular design of the rooms makes it possible for every patient to be physically seen from the nurses' desks. "As a person with a nursing background, I find that very comforting," she said.

"Not only that, but each room is an outside room and has a big window." She is positively beaming now. "Imagine that! A patient in the emergency room wondering if he will ever again see the light of day is put in intensive care — and that's the first thing he sees!"

MOST RECENTLY, the hospital received approval for the EMI body scanner, and Sister Amata is very excited about that.

"We must keep pace with advances in technology," she says. "We must respond to the needs of the community for programs, services and even beds if they are needed. 'Needed,' that's the key word. Not to have things just to have them."

Above all, she is determined to continue to promote the family spirit that is so characteristic of Holy Family Hospital, not only among the hospital personnel but among the people of the community who use its services.

Breast X-rays given support

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

All women between 35 and 50 who are at higher risk of developing breast cancer should have mammograms, the Chief Medical Officer of the American Cancer Society said this week.

Dr. Arthur I. Holleb, in an editorial in the November-December CA, A Cancer Journal for Clinicians, also told which women are "at higher risk" and appealed to physicians to help restore confidence in the breast x-rays that have proved helpful in finding some very early cancers.

The editorial, "Restoring Confidence in Mammography," was released in New York by the Cancer Society.

Holleb said he puts a woman under 50 in the "higher risk" category if she has at least one of the following:

- Chronic cystic matitis, with or without pain.
- Lumps and thickenings in the breast.
- Nipple discharge or other nipple abnormalities.
- A personal history of breast cancer.
- A family history of breast cancer on the maternal or paternal side.
- A family history of breast cancer in sisters.
- Early onset of menstruation.
- No history of pregnancy.
- First full-term pregnancy at age 30 or older.
- Breast cancer scheduled for diagnostic purposes.
- Fear of breast cancer that requires the reassurance of a negative examination.

Holleb said a mammogram with a very small dose of radiation — one rad — increases the women's probability of developing breast cancer from one in 14.3 women to one in 14.1.

"Any risk, no matter how small, should not be completely dismissed," he said.

"At the same time we must not minimize the risk of spontaneous breast cancer, which remains the leading cancer killer of American women and the leading cause of death in women 39 to 44!"

He reminded doctors that the art of medicine includes "evaluating which regimen carries the greatest benefit and the least risk."

"This is the central issue in the current controversy concerning the advisability of mammography," he said.

SINCE LAST January some doctor critics of mammography have said the diagnostic breast X-rays may cause more cancers than they find in early stages — taking more lives than they save.

The 27 centers have enrolled 270,000 women in a demonstration project funded by the American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute. The program is to run until 1980.

As a result of this publicity, 27 breast cancer detection centers nationwide have found increasing numbers of women refusing mammography. The mammograms are free to the women but cost the project $40 apiece.

The questions about safety concerned women under 50. Most authorities consider mammograms without risk for those over 50.

However, both older women and those under 50 have been breaking appointments for the breast X-rays.

The mammogram is one of three detection procedures prescribed for each participant over 50 and for all those from 35 to 50 at "higher risk."

THE OTHER DETECTION is via a regular breast examination and a thermogram — a heat-sensing breast test. Cancer tends to be hotter than normal tissue.

In the editorial, Holleb writes that the only current method of saving more lives from breast cancer is detection at a localized, highly curable stage.

For women between 35 and 50, he notes the theoretical risk of getting breast cancer, is very great.

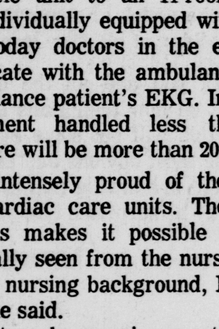

He said at least 100 early cancers already have been found by mammography alone in women under 50 at the 27 centers.

Herbert Seidman, Cancer Society epidemiologist, estimates that 80 per cent of the women under 50 enrolled at the centers are in the higher risk bracket.

Women and children first

by Julie Martoccio

Father must consent to child's adoption

Dear Ms. Martoccio,

I got a divorce 10 months ago and was given custody of my 5-year-old. Since then I remarried.

My ex-husband has not paid any child support during the entire time and has made no attempt to contact his child. In fact, he's left the state and will shortly be overseas. Is it possible for my present husband to adopt my daughter without her real father's consent?

Is it possible to change my child's name without going through adoption? — R.J.F.

Dear R.J.F.

If your present husband wishes to adopt your child, you would have to receive the consent of your child's natural father.

However, your child may use any name you wish to give her with or without adoption. This right extends to anyone who wishes to use another name without going through any formal procedure providing it is not done to cheat anyone, or to represent one's self as another person by that same name. The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Prostate exam often omitted

My husand died in November of last year of prostrate cancer. Previous to his death in three visits to the doctor he didn't receive a prostate examination until the last examination — one out of three and that one too late.

Doctors don't like doing the exam. Men don't like getting the exam. If someone could get the doctors to insist, I am sure the fatalities would drop.

At the risk of irritating some of my colleagues I must say that if prostates were breasts, they would be examined more often. You are absolutely right that many doctors neglect to do a rectal examination. In view of the high rate of cancer of the prostate (third most common cause of cancer death in men) and rectal and colon cancer in both men and women (second most common cause of all cancer deaths), such an omission is inexcusable.

Medical schools have long tried to teach this. A common teaching expression was that "if you don't put your finger in it you put your foot in it." The efforts have been only partially successful.

When the doctor doesn't do a complete examination, the only recourse is to ask him why not. Then if he still does not do a rectal examination, you should think about getting a different doctor.

It is not all the doctor's fault. Many patients simply do not want the examination. Many men in particular avoid any medical examination at all. Here is where wives can really help. By insisting that the man have an annual checkup and that it be a complete examination she can help him avoid disaster. I know it should not be necessary for a mature individual to be reminded that he needs to take steps to look after his own health, but when a man does not act in a responsible way, such measures are about all that are left.

A man with the responsibility of loved ones and a family also has the responsibility to his loved ones to look after his health and regard it as one of the family's most important investments.

The simple truth remains that more than half of the deaths from cancer of the prostate can be prevented by early detection and proper treatment.

Those who want more information on the Prostate Gland can sent 50 cents for The Health Letter number 1-6. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

I just wanted to comment on your article about split fingernails and nail polish. I used to have problems with split fingernails, but now my nails are long and healthy since I quit using nail polish. I stopped using nail polish last year because the remover made my skin break out in eczema. When I went back to using the polish again for a short while, my nails started splitting so I decided that either the polich or remover was causing my nails to split. When I used nothing at all, they grow long and seldom break.

Thank you and all the other readers who have written in to coment on how their nails have done after eliminating nail polish. While this will not solve everyone's problems with splitting nails, it is the most obvious and sensible first step. So if any more of you out there are having nail problems, stop the polish for a while and you may be surprised how your nails improve.

Regular brownies freeze beautifully

Dear Dorothy: I hear you have a great recipe for frozen brownies. Won't you send me a copy?—Mimi Levy

Better still, let's share it with everybody. It's a regular brownie recipe that freezes beautifully. Cream one and one-half sticks and three tablespoons margarine with one and one-quarter cups granulated sugar until creamy. Then add three eggs, one at a time, beating as each egg is added. Then gradually add three-fourths cup of cocoa, three-fourths cup of flour and one cup of coarsely cut walnuts. Add one teaspoon vanilla and mix thoroughly. Bake in a 9x13 pan in a 325-degree oven for about 25 minutes. Don't overbake. A toothpick inserted in the center should come out almost dry. When cool, cover with a frosting made of one-half cup of sifted powdered sugar, one-quarter cup of sifted cocoa, two tablespoons margarine, one tablespoon sour cream and two tablespoons light cream. Taste the frosting mix. You may want to add more cocoa or sugar. Cut into squares.

Dear Dorothy: Every year I add a few more Christmas tree ornaments which my young daughters help to make. We cover round plastic foam balls with velvet remnant pieces and tack on various odds and ends which we save for this purpose — broken jewelry, bits of lace, sequins and so on. Most of them bring back fun memories.—Claire Barber

Dear Dorothy: To polish metal I mix one-half cup cigar ash with a tablespoon of baking soda and add enough water to make a smooth paste. Using a clean cloth, rubbing vigorously and then polishing with a clean cloth brings a high shine.—Kip Carver.

Good idea, Kip but it's going to be tough on those of us who have neither cigar ash nor resident cigar smokers.

Wish book now available

The 1976 edition of the "Christmas Wish Book," published as a public service by Catholic Charities of Chicago, is now available. The booklet is a useful reference for individuals, clubs and other groups looking for a worthwhile Christmas project.

Among the listed Chicagoland agencies supported by Catholic Charities is Maryville Academy for dependent children in Des Plaines.

Over-all, food is the most urgent need reported along with clothing, toys and gifts for the elderly. Some of the agencies will accept used items in good condition such as clothing and furniture. Others welcome parties and entertainment for children and the elderly.

Many organizations which will accept used stamps and greeting cards are also listed.

Free copies of the "Wish List" are available from Catholic Charities public relations office, 126 N. Des Plaines St., Chicago, 60606. The phone is 236-5172 ext. 343.

EXPERIENCE IS THE BEST TEACHER.

When we talk about home health care, we feel that we should talk about quality medical/health supplies and equipment that you can trust to fit your special needs. And, the best way to recognize quality is through experience. A product's features, its durability, its production process and materials, and accounts of actual customer satisfaction all contribute to the determination of a product's total value to the customer.

At CHICAGO HOSPITAL SUPPLY CORPORATION, we have gained this experience supplying a complete line of health care products to hospitals, doctors, and clinics for over 25 years. Now, our HOME HEALTH CARE CENTER brings this experience to you. We know exactly what is available in each product category, and we only stock what best meets our customers' needs.

We don't think that you should have to settle for anything that is not exactly right for you. We want your road to recovery to be as uncomplicated as possible.

So, if you expect quality products and excellent service, come to us. We are dedicated to your good health.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kase

Lorraine Tegels– Larry Kase

Newlyweds Lorraine and Larry Kase are living in a Schaumburg apartment until they leave next spring when Larry goes into training as an Air Force pilot.

The couple were married Oct. 9 at St. Marcelline Church, Schaumburg, and then greeted their 60 guests at a reception at the home of Larry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Kase of Schaumburg. They honeymooned at Delavan, Wis.

Lorraine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Tegels, Bensenville, will attend Harper College next quarter while Larry, who graduated in aerospace management from Southern Illinois University this year, works for United Precision Products in Schaumburg. He also has an associate degree from the University ofIllinoisInstitute of Aviation. Lorraine studied at the U of I and SIU.

For the 3 p.m. wedding ceremony Lorraine chose an Empire gown of sheer over satin trimmed in lace. With it she wore a cathedral veil and carried white carnations, Abbey roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Her sister, Mrs. Wendy Jones of Bensenville, was matron of honor, wearing a rust-colored dress and Larry's sister, Laura, was bridesmaid in the same attire. Both had bouquets of yellow mums, Abbey roses, wood roses and assorted straw flowers.

The groom was attended by his brother, Terry, as best man. Dan Helsper, Schaumburg, seated the guests.

Karen Marie Marshall– Thomas D. Burlage III

Weddings

A chartered bus brought 47 Des Plaines friends and neighbors of the bridegroom to the wedding when Thomas Dietrich Burlage II and Karen Marie Marshall were married Oct. 9 at Lansing, Mich.

Thomas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Burlage of Des Plaines. A district manager for Westclox, he has been residing in Manchester, N. H. His bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edwin A. Marshall of Lansing and the late Mr. Marshall.

Their wedding took place at 2:30 in the afternoon at St. Thomas Aquinas Church in East Lansing. It was a double ring service performed by the bridegroom's uncle, the Rev. Carl Burlage. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Steve Marshall.

AS ATTENDANTS Karen had Mrs. Robert Ashton, Grand Rapids, Mich., matron of honor, and Lee Ann Louis, Jackson, Mich., Andrea Johnson, Lansing, Nora Tidd, Oak Park, Ill., and Mrs. Juan Martinez, Pontiac, Mich. bridesmaids.

THEY ALL WORE persimmon colored gowns with apricot trim. Each carried a single Sonja rose with greens, baby's breath and velvet ribbon streamers. Sonja roses and baby's breath trimmed their persimmon colored half-bonnet caps.

Karen's gown of candlelight chiffonette had a Queen Anne neckline, and an Alencon lace bodice and cuffs. Alencon lace also trimmed the headpiece that held her chapel-length veil. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses, daisies, greens and baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Burlage III

Capt. Michael Jester, Newport News, Va., was best man. Ushers included the groom's cousin, Ed Houck, Parkville, Mo.; the bride's uncle, Gary Marshall, Lansing; Capt. Louis Drotos, Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.; and John Chiarelli, Mount Prospect.

AT THE RECEPTION held in Long's Banquet Center in Lansing, 325 guests were in attendance.

The couple spent their honeymoon returning to Manchester, N. H.

Thomas, a 1969 graduate of St. Viator High School, graduated in 1973 from John Carroll University, University Heights, Ohio. His bride attended Lansing Community College and Western Michigan University.

Northwestern pair engaged

Juniors at Northwestern University, Betsy Fisk Greene and Robert J. Norris are engaged but have not yet set their wedding date. Betsy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Greene of Racine, Wis., are announcing the news.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Norris of Inverness and is a graduate of Fremd High School.

AAUW sponsors energy workshop

Those attending a workshop Thursday night presented by Richard Roman of Argonne National Laboratory will be playing a decision-making game using the energy-environment similator, a specially designed analog computer, to observe the effects of a wide range of decisions involving energy use and environmental protection.

The program is sponsored by the Arlington Heights Area Branch of the American Association of University Women and begins at 8 p.m. in St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights. The public is invited. For further information readers may call Ruth Grundberg, program chairman, 255-4664.

Cupid's Deadlines:

Engagements due at least six weeks before wedding date.

Marriages due three weeks after wedding for complete story; five weeks after wedding for brief story.

Further information, call 394-2300 ext. 262 or 251.

Dear Ms. Martoccio,

Tell me. Am I a fool? I have a tough decision to make. I've been happily married for 10 years and have three children. Except for a spat now and then, I really thought I had a secure marriage until my husband started to skip coming home for dinner, then not coming home in time to see the children off to bed, which had been a kind of ritual with him.

I didn't think much of his "working late" until one night he got a call from a woman. He then confessed that he had been seeing a girl who started to work in his company's office. Somehow he convinced me that she was chasing him, cried and begged forgiveness.

BUT NOW, several months later friends keep teling me that they've seen him at different places with her. I told them that I saw nothing out of the way, that the girl is his scretary. All a pack of lies, but I am determined that my children will not grow up without a father. I came from a broken home. As a child I both loved and hated my father, but I hated and until recently never forgave my mother for divorcing him.

I refuse to let my children go through the pain and heartache I knew as a child, but I'm afraid I may buckle under all the "reports" that come back to me. I have no feelings left for him, but that is not the point. What's left? — P.t.

Some "friends"! Let's assume they had a right to tell you because you had a right to know. But that doesn't excuse their refusal to accept your response. Eventually you may have to discuss the matter with your husband, especially if he continues to graze in his own back yard.

BE ASSURED, you are not a fool. Everyone has the right to tackle her problem in the way that she thinks is best, but you shouldn't have to grin and bear it alone. If you can't talk to your husband, why not seek help from a minister or trusted (genuine) friend who knows you and your husband? You may save yourself a heartache.

(Readers are invited to submit questions regarding problems of women and children. Names and facts that would identify the writer are withheld on request. Attorney Martoccio's law information is to inform and not advise. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publicatins, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Playoffs open in football tourney

Elk Grove, Elgin meet; injuries concern Grens

by BOB GALLAS

You can't blame Elk Grove football coach Don Schnake if he doesn't know too much about Elgin, his team's opponent in today's first round of the state football playoffs.

For weeks, Schnake and his staff have scouted teams they thought might be their opponent in the playoffs. The trouble is, none of those teams happened to be Elgin.

"I saw Maine South last week," said Schnake. "We played the percentages. and lost."

THE 8-1 Elk Grove Grenadiers haven't lost since their last trip to Elgin, where they fell to Elgin-Larkin to open the season on the same field they'll do combat on today. But the Grens could be without the services of one, possibly two, of their regular running backs.

Jim Meyer, a junior running back who had averaged 130 yards rushing in his last four games, sat out Friday's contest against Buffalo Grove with a sprained ankle, but should be able to start today. However, Shawn Murphy, another Gren runner, may not be ready.

Murphy dislocated a finger in a touch football game, a dislocation that sent the bone through the skin and required stitches. "It's a painful injury and the cold weather makes it hurt even more," said Schnake.

That leaves the bulk of the running chores to the third member of the Elk Grove backfield, a backfield so deep that all three backs on occasion have gone over 100 yards rushing in the same game. That third member is senior Tim Roberts a 157-pound dynamo who's averaged 80 yards rushing per game this season. Against Buffalo Grove, Roberts rushed for some 150 yards to lead the Grens.

BACKUP quarterback Ralph Souder, along with Kevin McCloughan and Guy Leopardo, should also see some action, filling in at the running back spots.

Lack of numbers at running back forced quarterback David Champa to pass more than usual against Buffalo Grove last weekend and pretty much the same can be expected in this afternoon's game, which starts at 1:30 on the Elgin High School Field.

Champa, who occasionally hasn't had to loft a pass during an entire half due to the Grens' machine-like running game, can throw. Against Buffalo Grove, he connected with consistency. His favorite target was 6-5, 200-pound receiver Mark Smith, who snagged eight passes for over 100 yards.

Whenever the talk turns to Elgin, which has the worst record of any playoff team at 5-4, the conversation almost immediately centers on Hersey, that's Richard Hersey.

A 6-3, 195-pound halfback who's gained over 1,300 yards rushing this year, Hersey has blazing speed. He's been clocked at 9.8 seconds in the 100-yard dash.

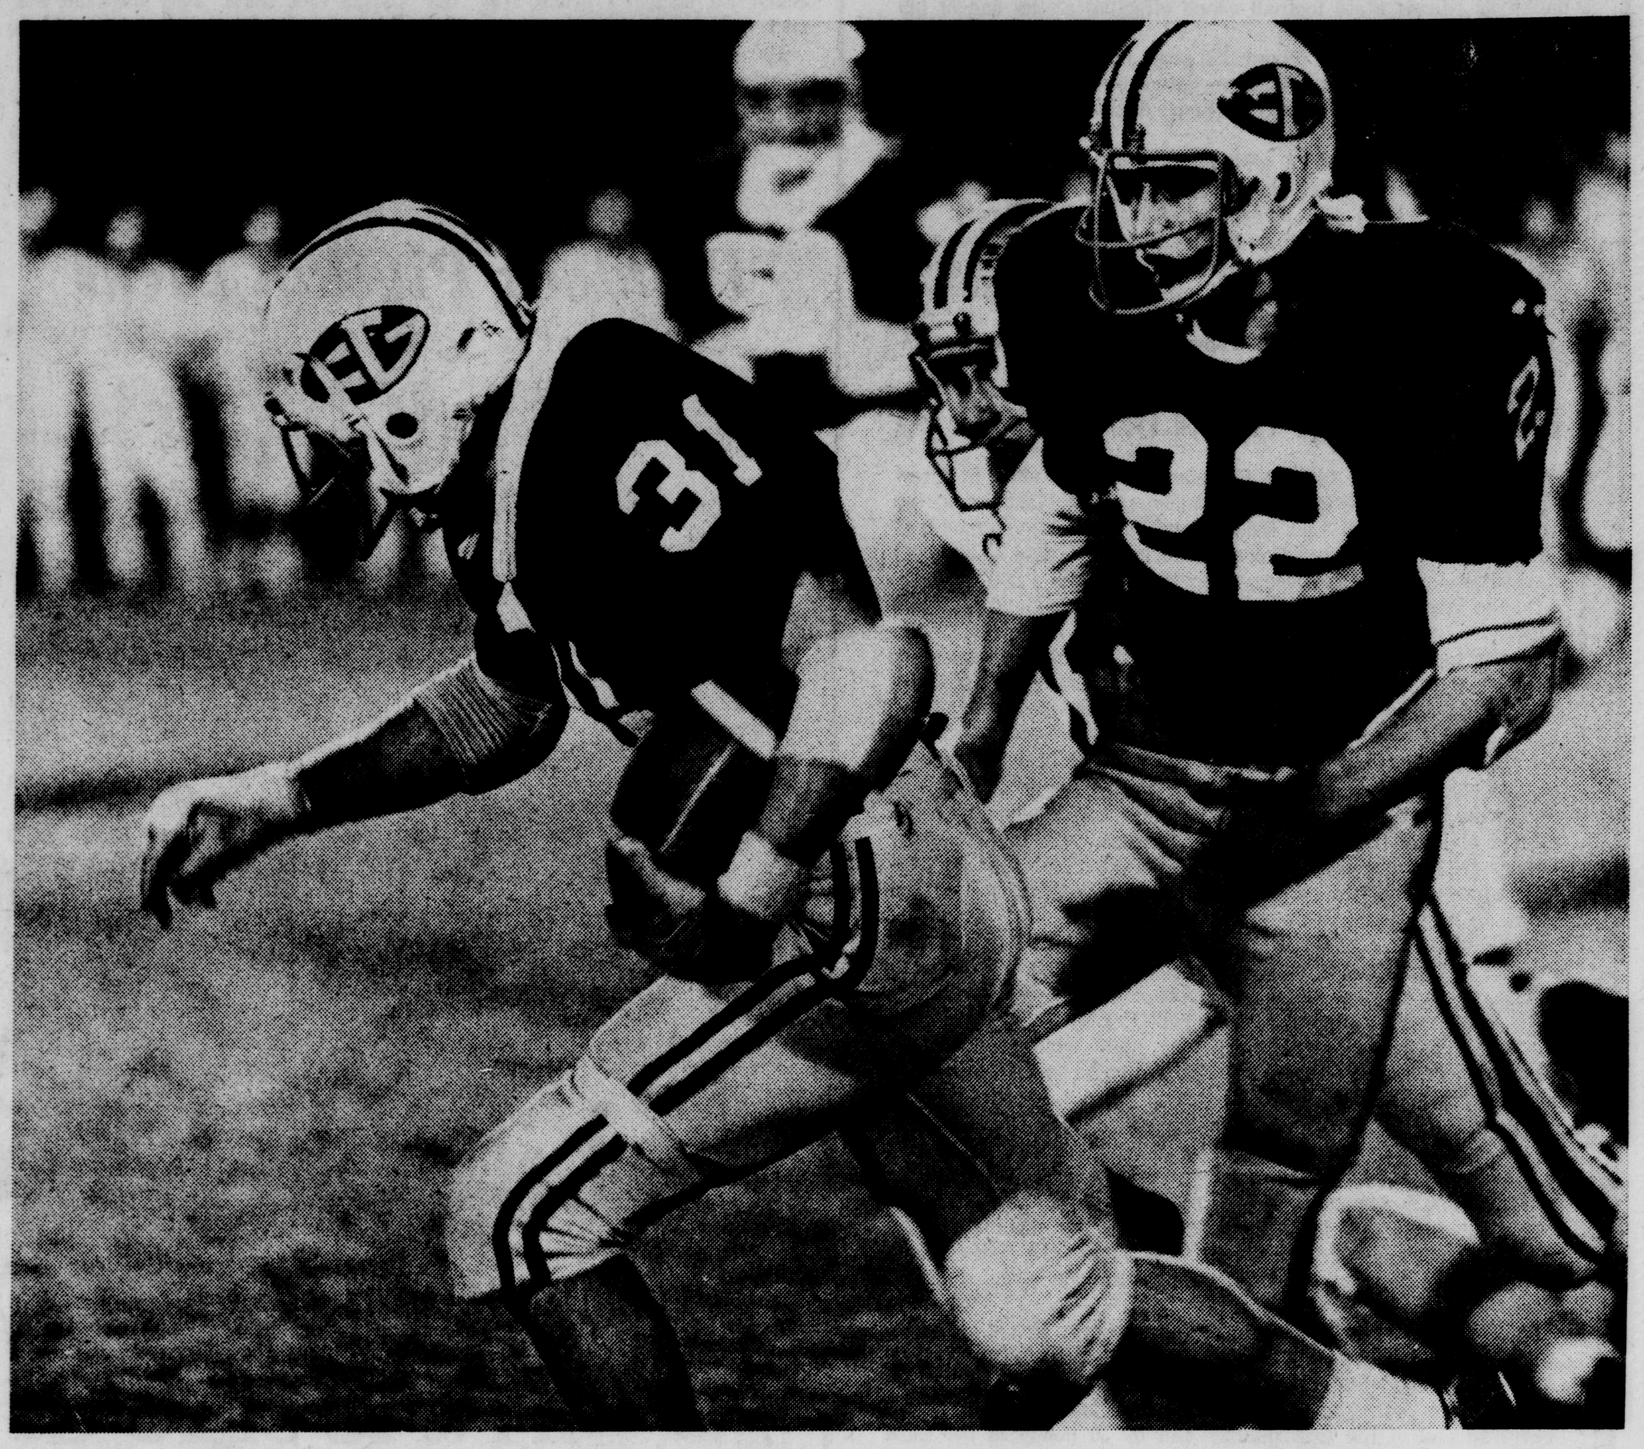

"I've talked to some of the Elgin newspaper people who've called to ask about us," said Schnake. "They all start out asking about us but end up telling me about Hersey."

The Grenadiers, as Schnake readily admits, probably are the closest to playing one-platoon football in the playoffs as many as 10 Grens go both ways although the usual number is seven or eight. Those who do see double duty are given rests throughout the game, but are usually the ones in there when it counts.

Will fatigue take its toll as the Grens will be playing their second game in five days?

"I don't think so," said Schnake. "We've been going the same way all year and lately, most of the damage we've done has come in the second half.

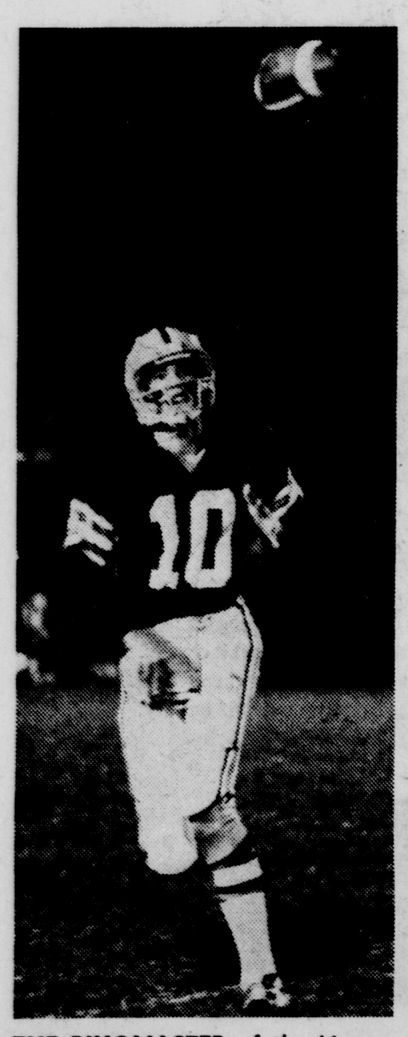

"We were down against Hoffman and Buffalo Grove at halftime and led Prospect by just one point, but came on to win all those games.

QUESTION MARKS. Any success Elk Grove's powerful Grenadiers hope for today in Elgin may rest with the availability of Jim Meyer (31) and Shawn Murphy (22). Injuries sidelined the backfield stars in the regular-season finale against Buffalo Grove. Meyer should be ready, but Murphy appears doubtful with a dislocated finger. (Photo by Tom Grieger)

Both coming off setbacks

Hersey entertains Brother Rice

THE RINGMASTER of the Hersey football circus this year has been quarterback Dan Vucovich. The junior will lead the 6-3 Huskies into their first round playoff game with Brother Rice (8-1) today at Hersey.

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

The Hersey Huskies and Brother Rice Crusaders, a pair of teams trying to shake the effects of losses in their final regular-season games, will meet today at Hersey at 1:30 p.m. in a first-round game of the Illinois State Class 5A football playoffs.

"We've just forgotten what happened last week," said Hersey head coach Joe Gliwa in reference to the 33-0 loss to Rolling Meadows that dropped their final mark to 6-3.

"A lot of things happened that we don't think will happen again and we're moving ahead with a confident attitude."

BROTHER RICE (8-1) saw an undefeated season and the Chicago Catholic League championship slip away when they fell to powerhouse St. Laurence last week.

More importantly, the Crusaders lost starting quarterback Larry Ruzich with a broken arm.

"How that will affect the offense we can't really say," said Crusader coach Tom Mitchell. "Even now we haven't decided on a backup quarterback for Larry."

The leading candidates are Tony Michalek and Bernie O'Riley but, although the Brother Rice offense may sputter more than usual, the defense will be the same that has whitewashed six opponents this year.

"WE HAVE A strong, quick defense," Mitchell said. "Our kids aren't exceptionally big, we only average about 200 pounds on the front line, but everyone goes after that ball and all our kids can tackle."

Hersey will counter Brother Rice's defense with an offense that has usually produced just enough points to win.

Fullback Tony Becker and right halfback Wally Hommerding have playoff experience, but the situation will be new to left halfback Mike Nirva and junior quarterback Dan Vucovich.

However, Vucovich has proven in the past he is able to mount a drive when it is required.

VUCOVICH'S primary receivers are Dino Capasso, Mike Pankowiak, Brian Robertson and Hommerding.

Providing the holes and the protection for Hersey's offense will be center Tom Blondell, guards Bob Schachner and Jeff Jordan and tackles Sandy Dameron and Bob Kapusinski.

"We don't have the depth they'll be able to throw at us," Gliwa said, "with 1,800 boys at that school. But I think our frontliners will be able to do the job."

Hersey's defense will be tested by a Crusader offense that must wait to see how effective they will be with a new leader.

"WE TRY TO BE as balanced as we can," Mitchell remarked. "We don't have any particular plan for this game because we don't know enough about Hersey."

The kids who put the points on the board for Brother Rice are running backs Greg Smith and Ronald James, flanker Jim Solus and receivers Jim Tyson and Rich Seiler.

Hersey's defensive alignment will feature tackles Steve Marsh and Kurt Wagner, nose guard Mark Bassie and defensive ends Brian Peterson and Mike Hare along the front line.

Backing the line will be Bobby Hart, Mark Schall and Tom Hogan while Joe Pusatera, Mike Lococo and Dave Mueller will guard the defensive secondary.

TRYING TO find an advantage in this type of contest is fruitless, which makes it all the more interesting.

The Crusaders' coach admits his ignorance of the Hersey team, saying, "We simply don't know anything about them."

Gliwa is a master at getting the most out of his team for the important games.

"We have a helluva challenge facing us," he said. "We have to play a good game to beat them and I know we will give it our best."

In this game, and this is undoubtedly the biggest in a long series of important games Hersey played to win their sixth straight MSL North Division title, that may be enough.

St. Viator's Lions travel to New Trier East

by BOB GALLAS

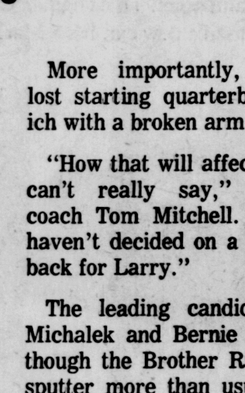

Holy Cross head football coach Bob Koleno has mixed emotions about today's battle between St. Viator and New Trier East in the first round of the state playoffs.

"We beat New Trier East this year so if they do well in the playoffs, that would make us look good," said Koleno, whose Crusaders administered the only loss of East's 8-1 record. "But I'd also like to see St. Viator represent our conference by doing well."

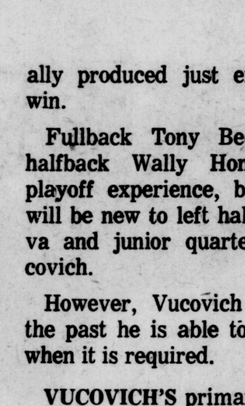

Koleno, an Arlington Heights resident, has seen both clubs, during his 22-15 win over East and during an 18-13 loss to Viator. So what does he think the outcome of today's game will be?

"I'D CALL IT a tossup. They both have pretty good offenses and better than average defenses," said Koleno.

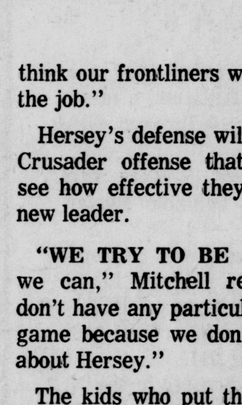

St. Viator has been plagued by injury problems all year, but have hoped all along that the injuries would heal by the time the playoffs rolled around. The Lions were 7-2 on the year and took their third straight East Suburban Catholic Conference title with a 6-0 mark.

Dave Nicolau

John Josten

John Gillen

But the injuries haven't gone away. And the Lions of coach Jim Lyne are facing perhaps their worst casualty yet going into today's game, which will start at 1:30 p.m. at New Trier East in Winnetka. Dave Nicolau, a 6-5, 230-pound mountain who has anchored Viator's defensive line all year, spent the early part of the week in the hospital with suspected mononucleosis.

"He's the heart of our defense and his being out would really hurt us," said Lyne, who said it wouldn't be known whether Nicolau could play until gametime. "We've had a ttrrible, terrible time all this year in our starters being out but we've been able to replace the injured. We have a gutsy bunch of kids here."

IN ADDITION to Nicholau, starting guard John Tracy will be in and out because of knee troubles that have sidelined him for a good part of the season. Middle linebacker Andy Pedersen has also been out with an injury and is a question mark for today.

Tht Lions will go up against one of the better quarterbacks in the state. He's 6-1, 195-pound Rich Weiss, the Indians' leading rusher.

"We run Weiss on the option a lot," said Indians' coach Gene Cichowski, a former All-American halfback at Indiana whose six-year record at New Trier is 40-11. "But we also try to pass one-third of the time," he said.

"We've scouted St. Viator against Holy Cross and Marist," said Cichowski. "They are strong defensively, and tough to run against. But if they take away our running game, we feel we can throw against them."

CICHOWSKI said he was also impressed with Viator running back John Gillen and quarterback John Josten. "Gillen moves exceptionally well for his size," said Cichowski.

The Indians are primarily a senior team although many of the seniors playing this year didn't see a lot of playing time last year, according to Cichowski. Only two juniors see part-time action on offense. On defense, just two juniors are starters.

Lyne says his team is preparing by working on all phases of their game. "They (NTE) do everything well," said Lyne. "Otherwise, they wouldn't be where they are now."

Gerry Hart resigns ISU football post

NORMAL, Ill. — Gerry Hart, 41, Tuesday announced his resignation as Illinois State football coach effective at the end of his contract Aug. 15, 1977.

Hart's team, with a 3-6 record this year, has two games to play, at home against Eastern Michigan Saturday and at Eastern Illinois Nov. 20. His career record at Illinois State for five years is 24-27-1.

Warren Schmakel, men's athletic director, said a search for Hart's replacement would begin immediately in hopes of obtaining a successor early in 1977 before recruiting reaches a peak. The new coach will be able to name his assistants, Schmakel said. Hart's assistant coaches also have contracts expiring next August.

"My future plans are indefinite," Hart said. "I'm staying with the squad for the next two games and after that I'll be exploring avenues and seeking other opportunities, either in or out of coaching."

Fists highlight full N.B.A. schedule

Buffalo topped Los Angeles, Cleveland won their ninth in a row with a win over Milwaukee, the Knicks zapped Washington, the New York Nets fell at New Orleans and San Antonio overpowered Seattle and Denver bested Golden State in a full slate of National Basketball Assn. games Tuesday night that featured a fistfight.

On the West Coast, Kansas City was to visit Portland in a late game.

All-star guard Randy Smith, breaking out of a scoring slump, scored eight points in overtime and the Buffalo Braves stormed back from a 22-point deficit to beat the Los Angeles Lakers 121-116.

Los Angeles was in command 91-72 when Laker Kermit Washington and Buffalo's Don Adams and John Shumate became involved in a brawl near the Braves' basket. The fight emptied both benches with 10:42 left in the game. Adams and Washington were ejected and the fisticuffs ignited the Braves, who outgunned the Lakers 32-13 during the rest of regulation play. Bob McAdoo's 25-foot jumper with two seconds remaining in regulation tied the game 104-104 and sent it into overtime.

ELSEWHERE, CAMPY RUSSELL scored 25 points and Austin Carr 22 to lead the Cleveland Cavaliers to their ninth win in ten games, 111-90, over the Milwaukee Bucks.

IN NEW YORK, Mo Layton and Walt Frazier led a drive midway through the second half Tuesday night which enabled the Knicks to break away from a 68-68 tie and go on to a 106-97 victory over the Washington Bullets.

AT NEW ORLEANS, guards Pete Maravich and Gail Goodrich combined for 52 points and sparked a fourth-quarter rally Tuesday night to give the Jazz a 110-99 win over the New York Nets.

IN DENVER, center Dan Issel scored a season-high 34 points and teammate David Thompson added 25 as the undefeated Denver Nuggets struggled to a 123-117 victory over the Golden State Warriors Tuesday night, boosting their NBA win streak to eight games.

IN TEXAS, forwards George Gervin and Larry Kenon combined for 47 points and San Antonio overpowered Seattle, 138-114. Gervin hit 24 points and Kenon scored 23 as the Spurs took the lead on their second possession and never trailed, leading by 18 points near the end of the first quarter and by 30 points in the third quarter.

Capitals win two in row first time

The Washington Capitals took a 3-0 first period lead on goals by Doug Patey, Mike Lampman and Gerry Meehan, then held on for a 4-2 victory Tuesday night over the Vancouver Canucks and the first two-game winning streak in the club's history. The Capitals, who played their 174th National Hockey League game, got solid goal-tending from veteran Ron Low, who made 34 saves as the Caps were outshot, 36-22.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Bryan Trottier and Jude Drouin scored goals in the first seven minutes of the game Tuesday night to lead the New York Islanders to an 8-1 rout of the Detroit Red Wings.

AT ST. LOUIS, Pete Mahovlich and Steve Shutt scored two goals each Tuesday night to lead the Montreal Canadiens to an 8-1 victory and snap a St. Louis Blues' winning streak at six games.

'Sweet Swingin' Billy' quits A's

OAKLAND — The Oakland A's announced Tuesday they are asking for unconditional release waivers on Billy Williams, a mere formality since Williams already has announced he is finished with baseball.

Wlliams, who was 38 years old last June, played 15 years with the Cubs where he won National League Most Valuable Player honors as well as appearing in six All-Star games.

He was traded to the A's after the 1974 season and with Oakland was used primarily as a designated hitter. In 1975 Williams hit 23 homers, drove in 81 runs and had a .244 batting average as the A's won their fifth straight American League West title. This past season, Williams slipped to 11 homers, 41 RBIs and .211.

In his 17 years in the majors, Williams hit 392 homers in the N. L. and 34 more in the A. L. for a career total of 426, which puts him 15th on the all time list. In his 15 years in the N. L. he compiled a .296 average while in his two years in the A. L. his average was .237. He also drove in 1,476 runs during his career.

Prep football scoring leaders named

Marty Lafary of unbeaten Stronghurst Southern scored four touchdowns and four points on a pair of two-point conversions last week to close the regular season as the state's high school scoring leader with 200 points.

Lafary, who has gained 1,151 yards this season, ran 72, 1, 65 and 12 yards for his touchdowns to lead his team into the playoffs for the third straight year. In that stretch he has run for 4,068 yards.

Robin Bone of Vandalia scored six touchdowns and five conversions for a 41-point game to climb to third place in the individual standings with 165 points while the early leader, Steve Oliver Maroa-Forsyh, scored his team's only touchdown in a defeat to take second place with 170 points.

Ron Holman of Eldorado was fourth with 140 points followed by John Thornsbrough of Rossville-Alvin with 135.

Rounding out the top 10 were Jim Snyder of Fulton with 134, Bryan Amis of Barrington and Mike Thomas of Arcola with 130, Alex Armato of Rockford Boylan with 120 and Larry Sergeant of Auburn Community with 116.

And in other sports news...

The first lady of tennis Billie Jean King, underwent knee surgery Tuesday, but is expected to be back on the courts in six weeks . . . The New York Knicks have placed Spencer Haywood in the inactive list with a bruised left calf, which means the center-forward must sit out at least five games . . . At the same time, the Knicks took guard Butch Beard off the inactive list, where he'd been all season because of a leg injury . . . Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, Germany's greatest tennis player, was killed Tuesday in an auto accident on the Cairo to Alexandria Highway . . . Von Cramm, 67, won the French singles title from 1932 to 1935 and returned to win the West German singles final in 1948 and 1949 . . . The Oakland Raiders announced Tuesday that tight end Ted Kwalick, injured in Sunday's game with the Bears, has undergone knee surgery and is finished for the season . . . Former National League hurler Al Jackson has been hired as the Boston Red Sox pitching coach . . . Jackson, 41, compiled a 67-99 career record in 10 seasons with the Pirates, Mets, Cardinals and Reds . . . Jackson replaced Stan Williams, who resigned at the end of last season.

Rockets blast past Bulls, 111-92

by KEITH REINHARD

Houston burned the basketball at a 60 per cent clip afield and hit on 12 of 12 at the free throw line to build up a 10-point halftime lead and coast to a 111-92 win over the Bulls at the Stadium Tuesday night.

It was the fifth straight loss for coach Ed Badger's group and the sixth in eight tries this season.

The Bulls trailed from the opening minute and were down by a dozen after the Rockets exploded for 36 points in the first quarter.

LED BY AGGRESSIVE guard Mike Newlin and the well-traveled Moses Malone, Houston opened up gaps of as many as 27 points in snapping their own two-game losing streak for their fifth win in eight tries.

"I'm embarrassed and frustrated," sighed Badger afterwards. "Houston has a nice team. They attacked the baskets tonight and took the game away from us."

Malone finished with 17 points and teamed with Kevin Kunnert, Tom Owens and Rudy Tomjanovich to neutralize 7-2 Bulls' center Artis Gilmore under the hoops.

Gilmore mustered 16 points but pulled down but eight rebounds all night.

CHICAGO DID make one run at the Rockets early in the third quarter, reducing the deficit to 64-60, but that was as close as they could come.

Newlin wound up with 25 points and was joined in double figures by John Johnson (17), Tomjanovich (19) Calivin Murphy (12) and Kunnert (10) as well as Malone.

"We need some help," Badger explained. "Getting Jack Marin and Scott May back should begin opening it up. If some of the others can't play, we'll get some players who can."

One who came to play Tuesday for Chicago was forward Mickey Johnson who led all scorers with 26 and was the game's top rebounder with 12.

BOB LOVE chipped in with 16 points and rookie guard Tom Kropp added 14 more in a losing effort.

Godawa returns home

China trip fascinating

Charlie Dickinson
Staff Sportswriter

A Chinese peasant, walking in the shadow of the Great Wall, is going to be awfully puzzled when he finds the golf ball.

The ball was driven over the wall by Jim McKay, and it will begin a Wide World of Sports segment devoted to the trip taken by the six gymnasts who comprised the United States Gymnastic Delegation China.

Mike Godawa, junior at Louisiana State and graduate of Rolling Meadows High School, was a part of that delegation and the trip to China, in the wake of that country's political upheaval and this country's national election, remains a series of vivid images.

Mike Godawa

"WE REALLY didn't know what to expect when we went over there," Godawa said from his dorm at LSU Monday, where he had just arrived home from a trip halfway around the world.

"There were so many unusual things going on it's hard to remember them all."

The delegation, included Bart Conner, Gene Whalen, Jay Whalen, Mike Carter and Larry Gerrard and was feted repeatedly by the Chinese people with banquets.

"Every time we had a banquet," Godawa recalled, "they gave a speech celebrating the smashing of the Gang of Four.

"THEY WERE celebrating the new chairman and it kind of surprised me that they did it.

"It also got pretty annoying because it was the same speech every time."

Godawa did some detective work, questioning the Chinese hosts to see if he could get a clarification of the term "liquidation" that described the fate of Mao's widow and compatriots.

"We couldn't find out what they meant by that," he said. "There seemed to be a lot of things kept secret but they told us that 'liquidated' didn't necessarily mean they were killed.

"ALL THEY KNEW about our elections was that Jimmy Carter was running against Ford. We found out Carter won because one of the coaches had a very powerful radio but I don't know how long the people of China will go before they're told who won."

Another surprise was the quality of the Chinese gymnasts and the support of the people.

"If they ever put a team in the Olympics," Godawa said, "they'd do very well. They made a tour of the United States a while ago and they've made a lot of improvements in their program."

The U.S. delegation lost to China's best gymnasts in a meet in Peking but beat another team and performed exhibitions in Canton and Shanghai.

"THE PEOPLE in Peking weren't as friendly as others we met," Godawa said. "Mao used to live in Peking and that was the most militaristic city we visited.

"But at all our meets there were 20,000 or more people watching and even at our workouts they'd have two or three thousand people in just to watch us practice."

When he could get away, Godawa enjoyed roaming the streets with former LSU teammate Mike Carter.

"They had a lot of sightseeing trips scheduled," Godawa said. "We walked on the Great Wall, which was a trip, and saw the Forbidden City.

"BUT EVERY chance I got Mike and I would go out and walk around by ourselves. Boy, was that strange.

"First of all, since Mike is black the people were really curious about him because they had never seen a black person.

"They also stared at our bellbottoms and strange clothes so everywhere we went we had a hundred people or so following us around.

"I felt like I was from another planet."

THE ACCOMMODATIONS also pleased Godawa.

"From what I understand they put us in the finest hotels. There were no TVs or radios but they did our laundry for us and brought us coffee and did sewing if we needed it. They were very courteous.

"Nobody drinks the water over there and they have this stuff they call orange juice which tasted like over carbonated soda water. Usually we just drank tea."

Wide World of Sports cancelled their presentation of the trip, rescheduling it for January when more time could be devoted to the program.

"THEY FILMED our meets and Jim McKay drove a golf ball over the Great Wall."

Whoever finds that golf ball will not have as clear a picture of the culture that produced it as Mike Godawa has of the Chinese people.

Henderson wins over 1,151 entries

Doug Henderson

Followers of Paddock Publications Pick the Winners contest are becoming aware that time is slipping away.

With just a month left in the contest, 1,151 experts tried their hand at the contest, the most of the year.

Emerging from the pack was 15-year-old Doug Henderson of Arlington Heights, who went to the tiebreaker to hold off Robert Anderson of Palatine and Scott Bebber of Arlington Heights and win the weekly prize of a stadium blanket.

Henderson, a sophomore at Prospect High School, missed only two games.

He will join 11 other winners at a luncheon Saturday, Dec. 4 to determine the recipient of the grand prize trip to the Rose Bowl.

And, with nine winners already determined, the number of empty seats at the luncheon is dwindling.

The results of the weeks' card were as follows:

High school: Forest View 3, Arlington 0; Elk Grove 25, Buffalo Grove 12; Fremd 16, Hoffman Estates 13; St. Viator 21, Marist 15; Conant 34, Maine North 6; Prospect 18, Palatine 0; Rolling Meadows 33, Hersey 0; Niles West 34, Maine West 12; Schaumburg 42, Wheeling 16.

Junior college: Wright 26, Harper 0.

College: Ohio State 42, Illinois 10; Mississippi St. 28, Auburn 19; Alabama 28, LSU 17.

Professional: Minnesota 31, Detroit 23; Oakland 28, Chicago 27; Seattle 30, Atlanta 13; Washington 24, San Francisco 21; Green Bay 32, New Orleans 27.

Tiebreaker: New England 20, Buffalo 10.

Formco blasts out 3102

Paddock Classic Bowlers scored big at Hoffman Lanes with nine 600's, and two teams hitting over 3000 for the first time this year.

Formco Metal Products showed the way by blasting a season-high 3102. Beverly picked the same night to shoot the second high series, 3005, against Formco. Fred Hansen's 683, high for the evening, led the way for Formco with ample help from Russ Grosch, Mike Shoop, and Mike Hefnfer.

In the first game Formco rolled another season high of 1080, good for six points, against Beverly's 1021. Formco came right back with 1041 and six more points before Beverly Lanes held off their opponent with some big shooting of their own, 1053, good for seven. Bob Glaser's 640 and Frank Billy's 620 paced Beverly.

UNCLE ANDY'S Cow Palace shot well and held off Weber Bar-B-Que Kettles' bid to close the gap on the leaders. Uncle Andy's dropped Weber's Kettles into fourth place with a convincing 21-4 victory.

Greg Gappa's 639 and Mike Myslinski's 633 directed Uncle Andy's attack.

In the Grand Spaulding Dodge-Des Plaines Ace Hardware match, the Dodge men opened up with 928 and 943, good for seven and six points respectively, but Des Plaines Ace Hardware exploded wtih 1054 to salvage the last game.

Ray Sirber's 237, Ron Garr's 225 and Rich Carpenter's 223 were the rpinçipal ingredients in the seven-point decision.

In the remaining match, Oost Produce whipped Dick McFeely Pontiac in all three games — 891, 927 and 1001 — good for 17 points, while McFeely salvaged eight.

Ed Main, with house shoes and a borrowed ball, paced Oost with 610. Randy Aubert finished with 610. Randy Aubert finished with 226 and led McFeely's attack with 587.

Standings:

Beverly Lanes 156, Formco Metal Products 135, Weber's Kettles 131.5, Grand Spaulding Dodge 132.5, Uncle Andy's Cow Palace 128. Oost Produce 115, Des Plaines Ace Hardware 105.5, Dick McFeely Pontiac 96.5.

Striking flashes power

In a raw display of power, Striking Lanes flexed its bowling muscles by re-writing two individual season standards and coming within an eyelash of setting new team records in Paddock Women's Traveling League action at Jeffery Lanes.

Leadoff-lady Bette Brelle forged new top marks in both single game and series categories with a blistering 266 finale and 661 set. Bette had opened with 189 and 206.

Her near-perfect 266 score easily erased the previous high game of 246 set by Marge Carlson and Bette's 661 series topped the 657 by teammate Lu Schoenberger.

BETTE'S SUPERB individual effort helped boost Striking Lanes to the season's second best team game (996) and runnerup high series (2819) which the same quintet already holds with a 2848.

Schoenberger finished with 201 and 218 for a 592 supporting series as Striking beat Tower Cleaners, 5-2. Pam Lizak fired 214 and 202 for Tower.

In other action, Ten Pin Bowl edged league-leading Petterson Safety, 4-3, L-Tran Engineering moved into a tie for second place with a 7-0 whitewashing of Ziebart Rustproofing of Des Plaines and Mason Shoes blitzed Thunderbird Country Club, 7-0.

Ten Pin was buoyed by Marge Lindenberg's 209 middle game and a 213 by Ethel Juenger that helped offset a steady 606 series by Petterson's Bobbie Kostelny.

LORRIE NICHOLS continued her assault on the 190 average figure with a robust 650 series off games of 225, 213 and 212 as L-Tran rolled. Vi Douglas contributed a 223 game for the winners while Peggy Harris notched 571 for Ziebart.

Mason received balanced scoring, including Jackie Gard's 550-200 and Peggy Wales' 539 to topple Thunderbird. Dee Kachelmuss paced T-Bird with 520.

STANDINGS

1. Petterson Safety Service 56, 2. (tie) Striking Lanes and L-Tran Engineering 40; 4. Ziebart of Des Plaines 39, 5. (tie) Ten Pin Bowl and Mason Shoes 33, 7. Thunderbird Country Club 31, 8. Tower Cleaners 8.

Atoms—building blocks of matter

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Steven Elston, 9, of Eagle, Mich., for his question:

WHAT IS AN ATOM?

The air we breathe, the water we drink, the clothes we wear, in fact everything that takes up space and has weight is called matter. Whether a solid, a liquid or a gas, the smallest piece of matter that keeps the original characteristics of the substance is called a molecule. For example, a sugar molecule is the smallest piece that is still sugar.

With special equipment, scientists can break down a molecule into still smaller parts called atoms. If we broke down a molecule of sugar, for example, we would have 12 carbon atoms, 22 hydrogen atoms and 11 oxygen atoms. If carbon, hydrogen and oxygen atoms were proportioned and arranged differently, however, we would have any number of other substances, such as alcohol or starch.

Atoms are called the building blocks of matter because all substances are composed of them. When atoms of the same kind combine, they form molecules of the chemical elements. Many of the 100-odd elements you are familiar with include calcium, carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, oxygen and sulfur.

An atom is so small that by comparison a speck of dust would be gigantic. Placed side by side, about 25 million atoms would be needed to span the head of a pin. What's more, atoms are so light it would take billions and billions to weigh a mere ounce.

Most of an atom is empty space. But even so, scientists have identified many of its different parts. Three of the basic components are the protons, neutrons and electrons. Protons and neutrons are found in the center of the atom, while the electrons spend their time orbiting around them. The protons carry a positive electrical charge, and the electrons carry a negative charge. It is this electrical attraction that keeps an atom together.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Denise Carissimo, 11, of Youngstown, Ohio, for her question:

WHERE DO BANDICOOTS LIVE?

Actually two animals go by the name "bandicoot." They are not related and, in fact, live in separate parts of the world. The word "bandicoot" comes from the Tegula language of India and means "pig rat." This serves to identify a datty-type rodent found in that country. The other bandicoot is a small, pouched animal found in Australia, Tasmania and New Guinea. To avoid confusion, the Australian bandicoot is called bandicoot, while the Indian bandicoot is called bandicoot rat.

The Australian bandicoot, a nighttime animal, spends its daylight hours sleeping. It is at home in hollow logs, long burrows in the ground or any other secretive hideout. Some are as small as mice, while others may grow to be as large as rabbits. Like the kangaroo, the female bandicoot has a handy pouch to cart junior around in. Their diet includes meat in the form of insects and worms, and for their salad plate they enjoy munching on roots and tubers. Needless to say, their habits at the salad bar have earned them a reputation as a pest. However, despite the harm it does, it is a charming animal and is often kept as a pet in its homeland.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006. Entries open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Here is a hand that proves nothing except that bridge is a remarkable game.

South thought of opening with a forcing two bid, but decided his hand was just a trifle too weak for that action. So he settled for one heart. West stuck in one of those preemptive jump overcalls and North decided to jump to four hearts.

This gave South a chance to move into high gear. He Blackwooded to four and five notrump and went to seven when North showed one ace and two kings. Somehow or other he had forgotten about the queen of trumps when he bid the grand slam.

West opened his king of spades. South took his ace and, after a brief period of study and silent prayer, led a trump to dummy's king. He then finessed for East's queen on the way back, picked it up and claimed his grand slam, since he could chuck his last spade on the king of diamonds.

"What a silly bid and silly play," said West. "Who ever heard of bidding a grand slam when you needed a finesse."

Actually, seven hearts was the right bid. South would make seven if he picked up the queen of trumps. He would only make five if he didn't. Furthermore, West's jump overcall had indicated great length in spades and shortness somewhere else so South was correct in playing for a trump finesse rather than trying for a drop.

A Florida reader wants to know how to score an unfinished rubber. The answer is that a side with a game is credited with 300 points; a side with a part score on an unfinished game is credited with 50 points. This procedure is the same as in party bridge.

Martin Luther, founder of Protestantism, was born Nov. 10, 1483. This is actor Richard Burton's 51st birthday.

On this day in history:

• In 1871, journalist Henry Stanley found missing Scottish missionary David Livingstone in a small African village and asked: "Dr. Livingstone, I presume?"

• In 1917, 41 women from 15 states were arrested outside the White House for suffragette demonstrations. American women won the right to vote three years later.

• In 1919, the American Legion held its first national convention in Minneapolis.

• In 1975, despite strong U.S. opposition, the United Nations' General Assembly adopted an Arab-inspired resolution defining Zionism in the Middle East as a form of racism.

"Merit Delivers More Taste Than Higher Tar Cigarettes."

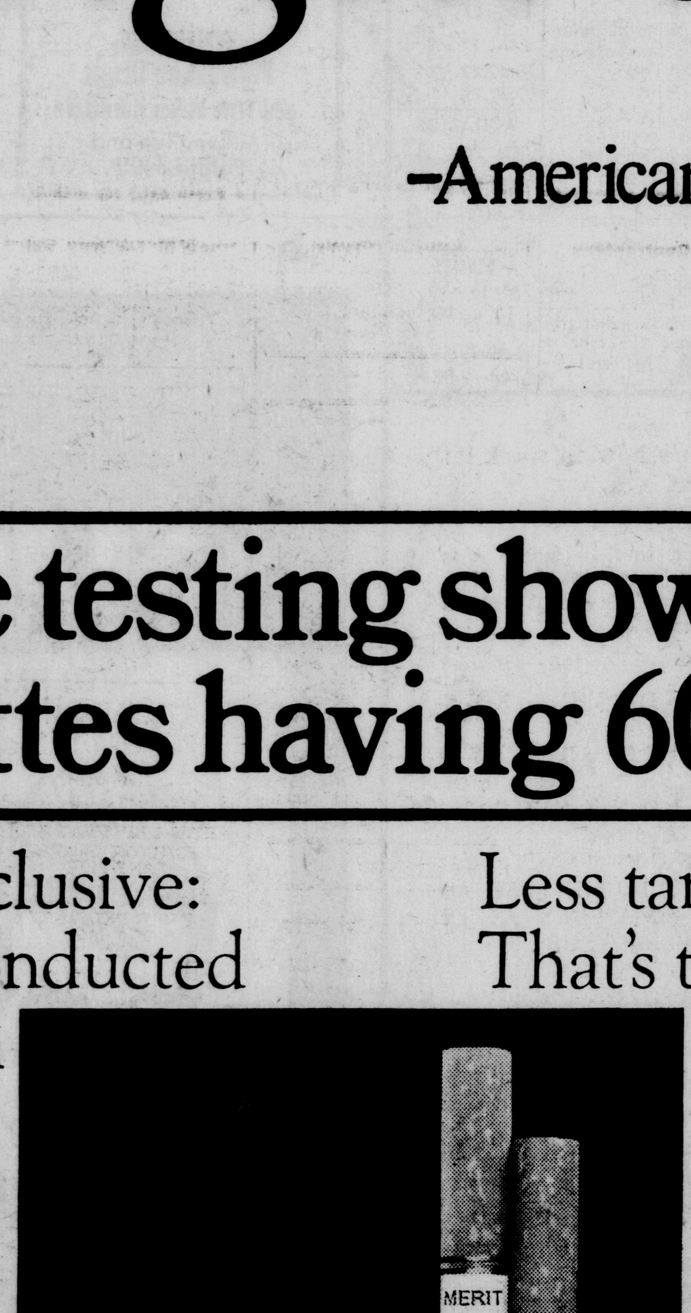

–American Institute of Consumer Opinion

Extensive taste testing shows Merit delivers flavor of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

The bottom line was conclusive:

In a series of taste tests conducted for MERIT by the American Institute of Consumer Opinion,* smokers from across the country judged MERIT to have more flavor than five leading low tar cigarette brands.

What's really startling —and of major importance to all smokers—is that MERIT has less tar than these five brands.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Less tar. Yet more taste.

That's the report on a remarkable new taste process called 'Enriched Flavor.'™ A way to pack extra flavor into tobacco without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now smoke the cigarette. MERIT.

Unprecedented smoking pleasure at only 9 mg. tar.

NAVY

1977 HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

If you are considering college in your future, educational financing is likely one of your major concerns. G. I. Bill educational benefits of this program will be terminated Dec. 31, 1976. Consider this: the Navy has over 60 challenging specialties from nuclear engineering to personnel administration. We can provide you with training and practical experience in your field of interest and eligibility for current G.I. Bill educational benefits by enrolling in the Navy's Delayed Entry Program by Dec. 31, 1976. If this training, experience & financial assistance for your planned education are options you would consider valuable, let's talk about it.

More outpatient surgery offered at NW Community

by KURT BAER

More Northwest suburban residents will be able to get needed surgery on an outpatient basis at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Outpatient surgery is a time and money saver for patients who qualify.

The hospital recently opened a new section for outpatient operations. There now are four aperating rooms giving the hospital the ability to perform as many as 20 operations a day.

WHEN A PATIENT can go home from the hospital the same day the operation is performed he or she usually is eligible for outpatient surgery. Operations are performed with both general and local anesthetic.

Cataract removal, tracheotomy, bladder tumor checks, diagnostic D&C, vasectomy, plastic surgery and dental extractions are some of the operations now being done on an outpatient basis.

At Northwest, the first outpatient surgery begins at 7:45 a.m. The last operation under general anesthesia each day is at 12:30 p.m. and the last local anesthesia operation is at 3 p.m. In each case, the patient is out of the hospital and home by 6 p.m.

Only if the recovery is not as swift as expected will patients be admitted to the hospital.

IN THE NEW section, parents can stay with their children before and after surgery.

Outpatient surgery is not new, but there is a trend toward doing more operations on an outpatient basis as it becomes medically possible and as insurance companies include coverage for outpatient services in their policies.

An example of the cost savings is a six-hour diagnostic D&C which costs $164 on an outpatient basis and from $370 to $600 when the patient has to be admitted, a hospital spokesman said.

Workshop on craft dangers Nov. 15-16

A two-day workshop designed to alert artists, teachers, hobbyists and home craftsmen to the dangers of working with some modern art materials will be conducted by the Chicago Lung Assn., Nov. 15-16 at the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle.

Registration for the workshop is $12.50. Interested persons can call the association at 243-2000, ext. 68, for information and to register.

Veselsky appointed cancer crusade head

Wayne Veselsky, Arlington Heights community officer for the First National Bank of Chicago, has been named residential crusade chairman of the American Cancer Society's Northwest suburban unit.

The cancer crusade in the Northwest suburbs will be March 27 to April 3. Volunteers hope to raise $48,000 in contributions.

Learning disabilities workshop Saturday

The Council on Understanding Learning Disabilities will hold a workshop on "Mainstreaming Children with Learning Disabilities" Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Rolling Meadows High School, 2901 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Sonja Clary, director of the Achievement Center for Children with Learning Disabilities, will conduct the morning session. Eight workshops will be offered in the afternoon and participants may attend three of the 45-minute sessions.

Registration fee for the seminar is $3 for COULD members and $4 for nonmembers. Reservations may be sent to COULD Seminar, P. O. Box 704, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice of Proposed Change in Gas Schedule

NORTHERN ILLINOIS GAS COMPANY hereby gives notice to the public that it has filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission on November 1, 1976, a proposed change in its schedule for gas service. The Company has removed 4.4¢ per therm from the Purchased Gas Adjustment (PGA) and added the exact same amount to the basic rates. Thus there is no change in your total bill.

Further information with respect thereto may be obtained either directly from this Company or by addressing the Secretary of the Illinois Commerce Commission at Springfield, Illinois, 62706.

A copy of the proposed change in schedule may be inspected by any interested party at any business office of this Company.

For the woman who's at the heart of her family's finances.

You can't afford to be wrong. Because if you're in charge of the family budget, you're making decisions about the future, too.

And that's where U.S. Savings Bonds come in. Buy them through your bank. Or encourage your husband to sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where he works.

That way, while you're meeting the day-to-day expenses, you'll still be building a more secure future for your family.

U.S. Savings Bonds. For the woman who really knows a good bargain.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
